Narrow defeat

MESD tax ditched

By Bill Winter
Staff writer

By a narrow margin Tuesday, Metro East Sanitary District voters rejected a tax increase that would have led to a $31 million public works project to protect against river flooding, surface water and underground water.

Unofficial tallies showed the real estate tax rate proposal losing by 1,202 votes, 15,318 yes to 16,520 no. In Madison County, it was 8,771 yes and 9,073 no; in St. Clair County outside East St. Louis, 3,321 yes and 6,030 no; and in East St. Louis, 3,025 yes and 1,417 no.

R C Bush, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice president, said Wednesday that alternative ways of providing the first year's local funding will be sought, but that prospects appear to be dim.

Federal funds not utilized by Dec. 31 would go to projects elsewhere in the nation, he said.

"We appreciate the efforts of the many volunteers, and feel their task was made more difficult by the presence of numerous proposals on the ballot," Bush commented.

Cong. Jerry Costello, while in Madison on election night, said he doubts that the courts would intervene unless citizens provide evidence that "damage to life and property is imminent."

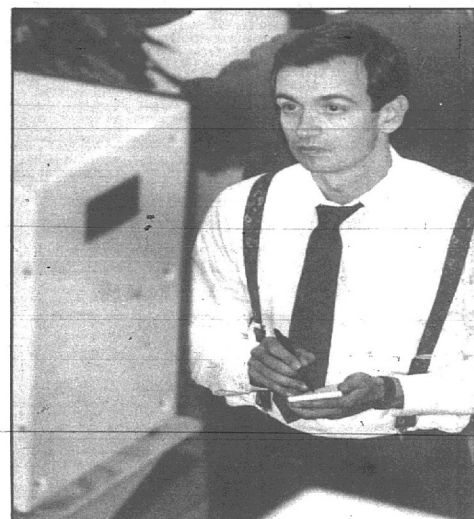

Costello and his ballot opponent, Bob Gaffner of Greenville, both recommended that the public approve the MESD program.

Walter "Shang" Greathouse, MESD executive director, said, "I'll do everything I can" but that "if we can't raise the money, we may have to wait for another disaster." An MESD floodgate broke in October 1986, causing one drowning death and flooding areas of East St. Louis.

Instead of a $5,750,000 local payment as was proposed Tuesday, Greathouse said, "A federal judge then might tell me to go out and raise $40 million."

"We'd probably have to borrow $28 million and pay back $44 million over the 20-year life of the bonds." Under the pay-as-you-go ballot proposal, rehabilitation work would have been carried out over the next five years and a bond issue would have been avoided.

WAITING: George Moran, 3rd Circuit Court judge, monitors the general election returns at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville. Moran easily won retention for six years, with 77.9 percent voting yes.

Wolf trounces Voloski

GRANITE CITY — State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, sailed to easy reelection Tuesday in the 11th Legislative District, whipping challenger Tom Voloski, R-Madison, by an unofficial vote of 26,229 to 11,035.

Wolf carried more than 70 percent in all but one of the 66 Quad City precincts. He carried 69 percent in Nantook II.

In Granite City, Wolf carried more than 75 percent of the vote.

"It's been an interesting campaign," remarked the 11-year incumbent as he watched vote totals on the monitors provided at the Madison County Courthouse on Tuesday night.

Voloski had run an aggressive campaign, taking Wolf to task several times for what he felt was excessive allegiance to Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, the Illinois House majority leader. Wolf said he intends to continue to support McPike when appropriate.

Costello wins again

BELLEVEILLE — Looking tired but relieved, Jerry Costello laid claim to his first full term in Congress on Tuesday night, outdistancing his Republican challenger Bob Gaffner by 54,324 votes.

It was Costello's second victory over Gaffner in three months. Costello beat Gaffner by 1,000 votes in the Aug. 9 special election, which determined the successor to the late Mel Price in the 21st Congressional District.

"It was just a short time ago that we came together and claimed victory," Costello told cheering supporters at Panorama Lakes in Belleville. "We said then we would win by a bigger margin and we made it happen."

As was the case in the March 15 primary and the August election, Madison County and East St. Louis held the keys to Costello's win. With Costello's leads being 10,000 votes in Madison County and 7,000 votes in East St. Louis.

Costello lost St. Clair County, though, for the second time in as many elections.

(See COSTELLO, Page 2A)

Donohoo beats Henke; Bathon whips McDowell

EDWARDSVILLE — Democrat Dan Donohoo of East Alton overcame a spate of last-minute accusations to trounce Republican challenger Homer Henke of Moro in the Madison County recorder of deeds race.

Donohoo upended Henke by a vote of 51,004 to 40,828.

"Where it looks like we're home free, boys," Donohoo said to his two young sons, who watched the TV monitor for returns with him in the county courthouse Tuesday night.

Donohoo held off an 11th-hour challenge brought on by supporters of Henke, who last week accused Donohoo of making a racial slur during a visit to the Edwardsville tavern several weeks ago. Donohoo denied making such remarks, accusing Henke in turn of being behind a "vicious rumor" campaign.

"I never faced anything like this in the primary," Donohoo said. He noted Henke did not run in the primary, and was later chosen to run by the Madison County Republican Central Committee.

Donohoo said the results of the vote tell him that voters placed more confidence in his past services of Henke, who last week

Demos sweep judgeships

It was a Democratic sweep Tuesday in the races for appellate and supreme court judgeships in the Fifth District.

It was also a successful election for three Third Circuit court judges who had been targeted for defeat by Madison County Democratic Central Committee Chairman Bill Harrison.

According to unofficial returns, with 99 percent of the precincts in the 37-county Southern Illinois district reporting, Philip Rarick of rural Troy received 54.4 percent of the votes in defeating Donald Lowery 561,172 to 218,748 for a seat on the appellate court.

Bush wins, but not here

GRANITE CITY — If George Bush got a mandate Tuesday it wasn't from the Quad Cities.

Michael Dukakis carried all 66 Quad City precincts and more than 65 percent of the popular vote. In Madison County, Dukakis received 54 percent to Bush's 45 percent. Nationwide, Bush outpolled Dukakis 54 percent to 46 percent, carrying most states, including Illinois.

No Republican won in a county-wide race, although Republican incumbent Sen. Frank Watson, 55th District, and Rep. Ron Stephens, 110th District, won the county and re-election.

Stephens' margin of victory was a little more than 1,500 votes. Quad City Republican Tom Voloski, facing Rep. Sam Wolf in the 11th District, didn't quite draw 30 percent of the vote and could do no better than 28 percent in his hometown precincts in Madison.

Andy Gitchoff: Vet of veteran groups

By Andy Stirling
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Ask Andy Gitchoff the cinematic question, What Did You Do In The War, Daddy?, and you won't get any stirring tales of derring-do on the battlefield.

Owl-like looking behind thick glass lenses and a perpetual half smile, Gitchoff makes no bones about his not having served a harrowing tour of duty in North Africa. While others chased and were chased by Gen. Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps through North Africa, Gitchoff's chores consisted of keeping track of radio transmissions as a technical-sergeant statistician for the Army Airway Communications System.

But he did do something that not many World War II vets had the chance to do.

"I bet I'm the only guy you know that climbed the pyramids," said the man they call "Gitchoff."

Gitchoff, 70, had a photograph commemorating the feat in his office at Gitchoff Agency Inc., 1927 Edison Ave., where he sells real estate and insurance and runs an accounting and tax service. The photo shows him mounted on a camel with several pyramids in the background.

"Yeah, I'm a camel jockey. The one I climbed (pyramid) is back over here," he said, pointing out of the frame.

Gitchoff, formerly a Madison resident, now of Granite City, climbed the pyramid with a Madison man, Elwyn McMurray. It was after the war while they were waiting for transport home.

Since the war, "Gitchoff" has put his head for details and organization to work by serving each of the various veterans groups — as officer, organizer, financial angel.

He belongs to and has served as an officer in local chapters and posts of the Disabled American Veterans, the American Legion, the AMVETS (American Veterans) and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He has belonged to each for at least 40 years, and he offers a simple enough reason for joining.

"People asked me, so I joined," he said, shrugging.

Forty indictments of Madison County saloonkeepers, each containing between 25 and 32 counts of illegally selling liquor, were issued by the grand jury. The indictments were based on a state law providing for a two-mile-wide liquor-free zone surrounding city limits.

Calm crowd greets two victors

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Despite the appearance of two projected victors, it was a rather sedate election night at VFW Post 1300.

About 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, 21st District, and his family appeared, with wife Georgia announcing that Gov. Michael Dukakis had taken the state of Illinois.

Dukakis later lost his Illinois lead and lost the presidential election nationwide.

Feeling confident and seeming equally wound up, Costello said, "I feel good — real good. Now it's just a matter of waiting for the numbers to come in."

He milled through the crowd of about 65, shaking hands and thanking supporters.

"I don't know how Dukakis did throughout the country but if he won the state of Illinois, it's because of good Democratic people like you," Costello said, getting one of the only energetic sparks from the crowd all evening.

"I would not be in the U.S. Congress now if not for the people in this room."

Before leaving for the next of three stops, Costello said to expect to see a lot of him.

"I'll be very visible," he said. "I'll also be holding lots of town meetings, as I have in the past."

Only the most stalwart of Democrats, an even dozen, were on hand to greet State Rep. Sam Wolf, 111th District, who arrived shortly after midnight.

Despite early returns showing that Wolf had little to worry about from Republican contender Tom Voloski, Wolf was still cautious.

"It's always a race when there's someone else on the ballot," he said. "You take nothing for granted in politics."

Wolf was surprised by the voter turnout. "I think we were initially misled by pollsters predicting a tight voter turnout," he said. "It wasn't true in Illinois and especially not in Madison County."

A chart to keep track of six major races in Granite City's 36 precincts had been made but never used. It also listed county auditor candidate Democrat Fred Rathon, as "Bathon."

There were no televisions or radios in the hall, but Madison County Democratic Chairman Bill Harrison gave periodic updates throughout the night.

The crowd was rather quiet and there was little roaring applause.

But Raymond O'Bear remembered a time when it wouldn't have been that way.

"That board is blank," he said. "Why even make it up? There was a time when you couldn't get another person in this hall because they came down to see those totals."

"You can drink beer anywhere."

Both he and his son, also named Raymond, suggested a computer link to keep track of the totals.

"It can't be a lack of interest," the younger O'Bear said. "The modernization of the tabulating process has killed local excitement."

Voters across Illinois say 'no' to con con

Illinois voters Tuesday soundly defeated the call for a statewide constitutional convention.

The margin was 3-to-1 against. But the voters approved two amendments to the state's constitution.

With 99 percent of unofficial returns reported, 2,686,435 people, or 75 percent, rejected the convention call; 889,289 voters, or 25 percent, favored it.

In Madison County, 43,645 voters, or 60 percent, opposed it and 29,853, or 40 percent, supported it.

Supporters have said a constitutional convention would allow the introduction of reforms which state politicians have been reluctant to enact, such as ethics standards for public officials, property tax reform or an elected Illinois Commerce Commission.

But opponents — including top political leaders such as Gov. James Thompson and Secretary of State Jim Edgar — have said a convention would be too expensive and would open the door for special-interest groups to distort the state document.

BAC district plan adopted

Election of Belleville Area College District trustees from sub-districts was authorized by voters Tuesday, 57,686 to 53,207.

Madison Countians supported sub-districts, 18,345 to 15,478.

vice as county board member, and on his plans for the recorder's office. Donohoe is a certified public accountant from Wood River.

Henke said the negative events of the last several days had nothing to do with the vote total. "There was a huge straight Democratic ticket (vote)," he said. "In fact, it's about 8,000 votes, which is just about what I'm losing by," he said, watching vote totals. The actual straight Democratic total turned out to be 29,826 by the most recent unofficial results.

Henke, a county board member for many years, said he doesn't know if he will again run for countywide office.

"I'm disappointed, but I know there's got to be a winner and a loser."

Democrat Fred Rathon, Madison, was an easier winner in the county auditor race, outpolling Republican Mark McDowell by 54,521 to 37,847.

"I was very pleased with the results," Rathon said Wednesday afternoon. "We have worked very hard for the past 18 months."

Bathon said he spent Wednesday morning taking down his campaign signs.

"The election's over. I'm grateful for people letting us use their yards and driveways, but once it's over I think they prefer to have them down," Bathon said. "Sort of let life get back to normal."

"Right now I'm physically and emotionally drained. The victory was overwhelming. I'm just absolutely exhausted. It was a long campaign and now I'm anxious to get back to work."

Although Bathon was fired from his position as chief assistant Madison County auditor by Auditor Pete Fields, he used his experience in that position as a campaign issue.

"I continued to campaign based on my qualifications and experience," Bathon said. "I believe the public understood I was fired because of political considerations."

Bathon was fired shortly after the Madison County Democratic Central Committee endorsed Bathon for auditor but declined to endorse Fields for 21st Congressional District representative before the primary. Fields was defeated in the primary by Jerry Costello.

"I am qualified because of the 7½ years I spent there and was just hopeful the voters would feel I was the best qualified," Bathon said.

He said he had heard rumors about what he "was and wasn't" going to do about cleaning house "once he takes office, but said he had not even thought about personnel yet and had no comment on his plans.

McDowell, Collinsville, Rathon's Republican opponent, had made "checks and balances" the major theme of the race. He said that in a county predominantly Democratic; a Republican auditor made sense.

In unopposed countywide races, incumbent Willard V. Portell polled 70,000 votes for clerk of the Circuit Court, Bill Haine 74,604 for state's attorney and incumbent Dallas Burke 75,895 for coroner.

111th

Wolf said he supposedly did not criticize his opponent. He did, however, refute comments made along the way. "If you have to tear down your opponent to your size, then you're not very big to start with," Wolf said.

Wolf won because of his record, he said. Wolf said he works nearly every day, sometimes long hours, and he feels the large difference in the voting shows voters trust him.

Voloski was back at work

Wednesday. He had not seen the final election figures at noon, he said, but accepted defeat.

"It was a disappointment, but that's the way it goes," he said.

Voloski said his political future is "on hold" for the time being.

One major area of disagreement between the two was the call for a Metro East Sanitary District tax increase. Wolf supported the measure and Voloski opposed it. The proposal lost by a close margin.

Costello

Gaffner said he did well in Costello's backyard because Costello was involved in some controversial issues in his former role as County Board chairman.

Gaffner said he was pleased with his showing in East St. Louis.

"I'm sort of surprised at the results in Madison County, but I'm pleased we were able to cut the margin from 8-to-1 to 4-to-1 in East St. Louis," Gaffner said.

"I think we did our job in East St. Louis, but it appears we didn't do as well as we had hoped in some of the other counties."

Dave Wagner, Costello's campaign manager, said this election was a more accurate reflection of voter sentiment than the Aug. 9 election, since voter turnout was just 20 percent in August.

"This was a real referendum on who their congressman ought to be and who has the best record," Wagner said.

Teen deaths, drugs, sex among topics discussed at 'risk taking' telecon

The Ketteler Center, the mental health division of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, hosted 35 area educators, mental health professionals, parents and others concerned with preventable teen deaths and accidents.

The occasion was a national video teleconference entitled "Risk Taking in Children and Adolescents."

Risk-taking behavior in teens may include suicide, thrill-seeking, drug and alcohol abuse, sexual promiscuity, teen pregnancy and accidents, it was noted. Three-quarters of adolescent deaths are caused by accidents, homicide and suicide.

"Risk is a part of all growth, development and maturation. We see it in toddlers who are just learning to move away from Mom, and in all other stages of development," said Steven Huk, MD, St. Louis University.

"The question is how one addresses and resolves the risk. There is no foolproof way for telling which teens are more susceptible to dangerous risk taking. However, there are predictors that help us determine which teens are at risk."

After the teleconference, a panel discussion was held. It was moderated by David I. Berland, MD, director, Department of Child Psychiatry, St. Louis University, and medical consultant for the Child and Adolescent Units at SEMC.

It also featured Huk, Dave Wells, psychologist; Teresa Cook, director of Professional Services at SEMC; and Harriet Grazman, director of School Consultation Services at SEMC.

Ice rink holding special sessions

The Granite City Park District Ice Rink will be holding several special sessions during the Veterans Day and Thanksgiving Day holidays, said Steve Kessel, director of parks and recreation, and Wake Barber, recreation supervisor.

On Veterans Day, Friday, Nov. 11, there will be a special session from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in addition to the regular evening session.

On Thanksgiving Day there will be an evening session from 7 to 9:30. On Friday, Nov. 25, there will be an afternoon session from 1 until 3:30 along with the regular evening session from 7 to 9:30.

St. Louis veterans' parade to be largest celebration

The annual St. Louis Veterans Day Parade, billed as the nation's largest veterans celebration, begins at noon Saturday in downtown St. Louis.

The parade's grand marshal, Vice Admiral Albert J. Herberger, deputy commander of the U.S. Transportation Command at Scott Air Force Base, will preside over more than 100 units.

All the branches of the military and veterans groups will have units in the parade, which will start at 17th and Olive streets and wind its way through downtown streets and past Union Station.

The Veterans Day eucemical memorial service will be at 10:15 a.m. at Christ Church Cathedral.

The memory of Robert Dean Stethem will be honored at the service. Stethem is the Navy diver shot and killed by Arab terrorists during the hijacking of a TWA plane in Beirut in June 1985.

Stethem's brother and sister, Kenneth and Shirley Stethem, will be guests of the Veterans Day committee at the service.

In addition, Major General Teddy Allen, commanding general of the 101st Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, Kentucky, and Dorothy Brady, mother of former White House press secretary James Brady, also will be honored.

Brady was wounded in the 1981 assassination attempt against President Ronald Reagan.

An 11:30 a.m. wreath-laying ceremony at the Soldiers Memorial, 13th and Chestnut streets, will feature the traditional 21-gun salute, a fly-over by the F-4 Phantom fighters of the Missouri National Guard and a performance by the Navy Flying Rifles drill team.

Union Station will be the scene at 3 p.m. when train cars of veterans will be greeted by the Salvation Army Band, recreating a World War II homecoming. A free USO variety show follows on the train shed stage.

Events in the St. Louis area on Friday will include:

• A flag-raising ceremony by the 11th and 12th districts of the American Legion at 10:55 a.m. at the Soldiers Memorial. A memorial service follows.

MYSTERIOUS YELLOW DUST covers the windshield of a car in the Morgan Street in West Granite Sunday. The West Granite area was blanketed by the fine yellow particles, believed by some residents to have come from the Tri-City Regional Port. No unusual occurrences were reported at the port that would explain the heavy dusting of the Western section of the city, according to port spokesmen.

PEO’s learn about women

Chapter HT, PEO, met at the home of Dorothy Kerch on Oct. 24, with Faith Holsinger presiding.

Holsinger reported on the Reciprocity Meeting, held in Carlinville, Ill., on Oct. 15.

She discussed a group of PEOs who decided to ride their bicycles from Trafalgar Square, London, to Red Square in Moscow. The trip was 1,500 miles, which they covered by riding 12 hours each day for four weeks.

A program was presented by Betty Robertson on “Famous Women of America.” Members were asked to identify the famous women after hearing a short biography of each.

Literary group welcomes guests at latest session

The Lesche Literary Club held its annual Guest Day at the New Cathedral in St. Louis, where they heard a lecture on the decorations, statues and the various chapels in the cathedral.

The club adjourned to a tea at the Adam’s Mark Hotel.

Members present were: Ruth Ann Bartels, Mary Ann Cochran, Ruth Seymour, Lois Holsinger, Catherine Schnipper, Jerry Jackson, Virginia Johns, Bess Henley, Burdine Holtzschner and Betty Harmon.

Guests were: Betty Rae, Lois Lester, Gloria Haeur, Annalu Reeves, Jeanette Pauly, Mary French, Arline Fox, Louise Terneus, Dorothy Davis and Thelma Jacobsmeyer.

Connie Stroheide, vice president and program chairman, was in charge of the event.

War Heroes

Monument to honor all Quad Citians who gave their life in battle

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — With Veterans Day tomorrow, this would not normally be the appropriate time for remembering those who paid the ultimate price in service to their country. Strictly speaking, war-dead have their own day of remembrance, Memorial Day.

However, plans for the new Granite City War Memorial, which is intended to bear the names of all Quad City war-dead, are nearing completion. The organizers need some help finding names they may not have (see the list at bottom).

A proposed 15-ton granite monument to be erected in Memorial Park across Madison Avenue from St. Elizabeth Medical Center, is to be dedicated on Memorial Day 1989.

Steve Konkovich says he got the idea for the Granite City War Memorial from an elderly woman. It was 1994, and the woman was stooped over, looking at one of several small memorials in front of City Hall.

There are memorials to war dead throughout the Quad City area. But it struck him that what was needed was one magnificent memorial that would consolidate the names of all war dead from the area. Moreover, the names of many area war dead don't appear on any memorial, he said.

He enlisted the help of former fire chief Joe Holder and the two approached the City Council for permission to build the monument. They began raising funds for the memorial which will wind up costing between $23,000 and $25,000.

Area veterans' organizations, civic groups, businesses and individuals have contributed almost $20,000 so far for the memorial, which will face away from Madison Avenue and be flooded at night.

Konkovich, who had a head cold this week from soliciting funds in the rain last Saturday, said contributions have ranged from nickels and dimes to $1,000.

Persons wishing to make contributions to the memorial may address them to Fire Chief Charles Bernale, 2300 Madison Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040. Checks should be made out to The Granite City War Memorial Fund.

The monument itself will be 10 feet tall and 15½ feet wide and will be surrounded by flagpoles bearing Old Glory and the flags of each of the five branches of the armed forces.

The Jack Phillips Monument Co. of Mount Vernon, Ill., is the primary contractor for the memorial. It is being purchased from a company in the Atlanta, Ga., area.

Konkovich and Holder are also compiling a photo album of area war dead. It will be available for copying by veterans' organizations. The master album will be available for viewing at either City Hall or the main public library, they said.

The two pored through newspaper microfilm libraries and records of veterans' organizations and wrote letters to government agencies in trying to find names to include on the memorial.

The research was fascinating, if difficult, they said. For instance, Konkovich found the name of Anthony Bargiel on a monument outside the Madison Memorial Recreation Center.

Only one problem: Anthony Bargiel is alive and living in Fairmont City today. It was an honest enough mistake, though.

"The War Department sent his family a telegram saying he'd been killed," Konkovich said.

He also unearthed one of the stranger wartime deaths in the area. In the Aug. 2, 1945, issue of the Press-Record was this partial entry:

"Tech. Sgt. Christopher S. Domitrovich, 30, ... was one of 14 persons killed last Saturday morning when an Army bomber he was in crashed into the Empire State building in New York City ..."

Domitrovich had served 13 months overseas in the Army Air Corps. He was shot down behind enemy lines and escaped to safety by posing as a peasant, only to die in one of the more notable crashes in aviation history. Still, some might wonder why Domitrovich rates inclusion on a war memorial.

Konkovich and Holder said they made the decision early on to include anyone who died of service-connected causes during time of war. They reasoned that the sacrifice made was no less the great simply because it did not occur on a battlefield.

Names, photos needed

This is a list of the names compiled for inclusion on a new Granite City War Memorial. The organizers are by no means certain that they have the names of all those entitled to inclusion on the memorial.

If you know of relatives or friends whose names are not on this list but who died in the armed forces during World Wars I & II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War or the Grenada conflict, you may contact Steve Konkovich at 877-1336 or Joe Holder at 877-5107. Also, call them if a name is misspelled or a first name is missing, they suggest.

A memorial photo album is also being compiled. Those names on the list for which the organizers do not have photos are indicated with an asterisk () after the name. If you have a photo of somebody with an asterisk () behind their name, Konkovich and Holder ask that you call them. The photos will be returned after copying.

Those eligible for inclusion on the memorial must have died while on active duty during one of the wars or conflicts listed above. They must have lived in the Quad City area, composed of Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach, Mitchell, Stallings or formerly rural areas served by the Granite City post office or school system.

Konkovich and Holder are particularly interested in war dead from World War I. They have very few names so far and they suspect there may be many more.

Important note: Those who have an original photograph, not a photocopy, of a person — for whom the organizers have indicated they already have a photo — may want to contact them. The original would reproduce better in the album. There is no charge for inclusion on the memorial or in the memorial photo album.

Lost In This Space

By Andy Siering

Will Russia have Lotto?

There has been much wailing and gnashing of teeth in my house since Saturday. That $39 million was MINE, do you hear me! MINE, MINE, MINE!!!

I am, of course, referring to the $39 million jackpot in the Illinois Lotto that was won Saturday. I just had that feeling I was going to win it, you know? Admit it; you probably feel the same way.

But hey, let's be philosophical about this. We can't all win. And I don't begrudge the man who won it — Joseph Soper, a lawyer from the Chicago suburb of Cicero and a former state senator.

No, I don't begrudge ... GIVE ME MY MONEY, SOPEH!!!!!! Sorry, I think I'll go home for a while.

But don't you just get goshawful tired of these people who hit the big one and then say the money won't make much difference in their lives?

Interviewer: "So, John Q. Public, what will you do now?"

Mr. Public: "Gee, I dunno. I guess I'll take the bus to the bowling alley. I might have a Stag or two, but I'll probably turn in early. Tomorrow's a work day, you know. Somebody's gotta change those light bulbs at the toilet seat factory."

Mr. Soper actually said this: "It's not going to change my life."

Course, in Soper's case, it's likely true. After all, he's 81. As he told the Associated Press: "I'm too old. I can't get in trouble."

Soper did get enthusiastic enough to say winning the jackpot was "better than a stick in the eye."

Gee, Joe, you think so?

But as I said, I can see why Soper wouldn't get terribly excited. His road may be paved with gold from now on, but let's face it, at 81 how much road can he have left?

So, he's being generous with a dash of cynicism, saying he would donate some to various charities and promising to give his long-time secretary 20 percent of it.

The secretary, Lois Anderson, 60, said she would travel, "if he gives me some time off."

Hey, Lois, did you get that 20 percent bit in writing? You did? Pack your bags, babe.

And you, Joe, dust off a place on your mantelpiece. Next time National Secretaries Week rolls around, it's a safe bet the short-hand set will give you some sort of award.

And get ready to hear from relatives you never knew you had.

News Editor Mike Myers was walking around Monday humming "The Internationale." For all you non-commies, that's the anthem of the international communist movement.

Don't get me wrong: Mike's no communist. At least I don't think so, although with his mustache and wild hair he sometimes resembles a bomb-tossing anarchist. Usually at deadline.

No, Mike was humming "The Internationale" because Monday was the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia. He said he woke up singing it. It's a pretty stirring tune (melodically, if not ideologically) except when Mike does it.

In Russia, they call their revolution the Great October Revolution, because it took place Oct. 25, 1917.

And people wonder why the Soviets have such a backward economy. You would too, if you couldn't tell the difference between October and November (Monday was Nov. 7). Think of the late-payment penalties alone.

(Actually, the difference is due to the post-Bolshevik changeover to the Gregorian calendar — an event future historians will no doubt call datenoski.)

At the parade this year in Moscow's Red Square, the traditional military themes were played down. Instead, poster slogans touted profits and fashionable fabrics (perestroika plaid?).

Profits! Not too long ago in Russia, that word could have got you an all-expenses-paid vacation in Siberia.

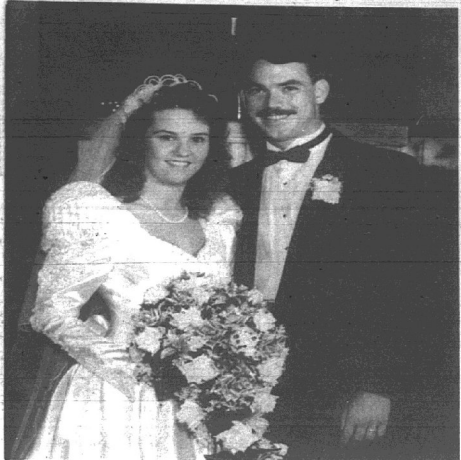

Instead of the traditional posters warning of capitalist aggression, there were posters promising "War on the Bureaucracy," one of the themes of Mikhail Gorbachev's perestroika.

Excuse me, but didn't Ronald Reagan promise to wage war on those darn bureaucrats? When you can't tell the difference between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. anymore, things are getting pretty weird. Next thing you know, Russia will have Lotto.

Oh well, when the going gets weird, the weird get going. I'm outta here.

The monument as it will appear completed

Mr. and Mrs. David E. Pinsker

Pinsker—Chosich

Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Pinsker, Cahokia, have announced the marriage of their son, David E. Pinsker, to Christy McChosich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Chosich, Granite City.

They were married Aug. 27 at the First Church of the Nazarene, Pontoon Beach.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Croatian Home Hall in Madison.

After a trip to Florida, the couple live in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Veinger

Yeinger—Loftus

Michelle Ann Loftus and Kenneth Edward Yeinger were married Sept. 3 at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church by the Rev. Don Wolford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond (Marie) Loftus, Granite City, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John (Evelyn) Yeinger, Baltimore.

The maid of honor was Nancy Jones, San Diego, formerly of Granite City, and the best man was Greg Mooney, Baltimore. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The groom's parents held a reception for the couple at St. John's Lutheran Church, Baltimore, on Sept. 17.

The bride attended Princeton University, where she majored in biology. She is employed by Eden Institute as a teacher therapist for autistic adults.

The groom is a 1988 graduate of Princeton University, where he majored in aerospace engineering. He is employed by the U.S. Naval Department as a civilian aerospace engineer.

Family visits Colorado relative

Tim, Karen and Rose Varady took a trip to Colorado to visit Chief Warrant Officer III and Mrs. Luke Thompson and daughter Carrie.

Thompson is stationed at Fort

Carson, Colo., with the Army. Mrs. Thompson is the former Diane Varady of Madison.

While visiting, they enjoyed the sights of the Colorado Springs Pike's Peak region.

DAR chapter meets at Old Six Mile

The Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the DAR met at Old Six Mile Museum, with 16 members and one guest present.

Vice Regent Sandra Wilkinson introduced the speaker Lillian Delp, the president of Old Six Mile Historical Society. Delp discussed the history, background and proposed future goals for the Old Six Mile Museum. Delp said the goals of the historical society are to promote research, collect historical items and preserve them in the museum.

She told how 19-year-old William Emert built the museum as a two-room house in 1837. The house was of the Federal Style of architecture, in sharp contrast to the normal construction of that time, the log cabin.

The house has been added to several times and from 1884 to 1894 was owned and occupied by members of the Zippel family. The house was acquired for the Old Six Mile Museum in 1984 after the death of Sophia Zippel.

Wilkinson conducted a business meeting.

Nancy Emahiser read the DAR President General's Message.

Marie Reinhardt presented a topic on national defense titled "Seven Reasons for Voting." In her closing statement, she said one did not have to be a veteran to serve one's country.

Barbara Williams told the group that Virginia Segar had presented Volumes I and II of the "Old Six Mile Clippings and Chatting" to the local DAR chapter to send to the state DAR Genealogical Library in Centerville.

Elected to the nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers for next spring were Emahiser, Williams and Jane Vanesler.

Before the meeting, hostesses Margaret Belt and Florence Simpson served those mentioned above as well as Ella Ray Smith, Aline Patterson, Ethel Beeler, Mildred McCormick, Emma Schoen, Louise Webb, Georgia Engleke, Judy Schatz and Mae McCormick.

THE Heartbeat OF AMERICA TODAY'S CHEVROLET

Pastor Henry Crippen

Psalms 67:3 "Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee." Praise to God is the highest form of thanksgiving. Primarily it takes our minds off ourselves and allows us to think of Him in all of His majesty and power. In all things we are to give thanks. By understanding the power of praise we can do this very thing. God inhabits the praises of His people. If we delight ourselves in the Lord, He will give us the desire of our heart. Praise does not fail to please God. Sometimes our prayers distress God - we ask an evil. Sometimes our tears do not move God - we weep for ourselves. Sometimes our giving does not impress God - we give to be seen of men. But, praise does not fail!

Let us together be thankful and praise the Lord.

Bill Fisherkeller will officiate. Burial is in Calvary Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Memorials have been requested to the American Lung Association.

Judges

In other appellate races, it was Robert Howerton of Carterville 283,652 (58 percent), William "Chuck" Evers 196,418; Charles "Bill" Chapman of Edwardsville 271,556 (56.7 percent), Robert Keenan Jr. 207,304; and Richard Goldenhersh of Belleville 263,670 (54.9 percent), Tom Long 216,613.

The 10-year appellate court terms begin in December. In the race for a vacant position on the Illinois Supreme Court, Republican Tom Welch of Collinsville lost to Democrat Glen Carbon, a former Granite Cityan, 258,252 to 227,454 (53 to 47 percent).

Calvo is a former Illinois state representative. County Democratic organizations defeated the Republican

Trivia

Flooding of Granite City by the Mississippi has not occurred since 1903. However, there were major floods due to interior run-off water in 1946, 1957, 1961, 1968 and 1973.

Gitchoff

boards of two banks, Gitchoff has also given amply of money to various civic and veterans' groups. He's co-signed bank loans for the DAV, the veterans' group he says is closest to his heart.

"I'm DAV through and through," he said. Through the DAV, he and Joe Hefferly, Granite City, helped start the Nameoki bingo game, which now also benefits such groups as the Lionses Club, the Moose Club, the Eagles and the Mexican Honorary Commission.

He served two terms as chairman of the Madison County Board of Review, which considers appeals on property assessments. He ran for nomination as state representative in 1986, campaigning on the slogan, "Repeat the unfair personal property tax." He lost, but the tax was repealed 10 years later.

The two things he's proudest of, he says, are his college degree from St. Louis University — which took him 10 years to get — and his wife, Vivian, whom he met in Athens, Greece. After the war, he had undertaken to visit his grandmother in Greece. He is of Greek Macedonian descent. His father and mother were both immigrants, he said — "Just like (Gov. Michael) Dukakis."

"She was the best looking gal in town," said Gitch. "She still is."

College to expand hall in Charleston

Gov. Jim Thompson broke ground Oct. 31 for a $6.5 million addition to Coleman Hall at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston. The 46,000-square-foot addition will house the university's Lumpkin College of Business.

Construction will begin in December, with completion slated for the summer of 1990. It will allow consolidation of the university's business courses into one building from the current six.

judicial candidates, Welch said. "The Democrats did better on the lower end of the ticket."

"What happened to me is typical of what keeps happening throughout the district. Few Republicans won."

Welch trailed by about 17,000 votes in Madison County, 54,978 to 37,656, and by nearly 11,000 in St. Clair County, 50,074 to 39,103.

Welch said he did much better this time in St. Clair County. In the past 14 months to campaign for appellate judge, he trailed in St. Clair County by 18,000 votes.

There are two years remaining on Welch's 10-year appellate court term.

Rarick, a former chief circuit judge, is not surprised at his margin of victory. "Quite frankly, it's just about the result I had anticipated," he said.

Rarick traveled 75,000 miles in the past 14 months to campaign for appellate judge.

"I'm thoroughly exhausted," he said.

The district is almost the size of South Carolina, he said. Some of the travel was with the other Democratic candidates, who ran as a team.

The appellate court is based in Mount Vernon. Oral arguments are heard there, but most of the judges' work is done in their local offices.

Welch has an office in Collinsville and Rarick said he will secure an office here, too.

Third Circuit judges P.J. O'Neill, George Moran and John DeLaurenti won retention by a wide margin, despite the opposition of Harrison and the county Democratic central committee. Harrison had complained because the three judges would not pay the committee amounts based on salary and length of term.

The Third Circuit includes Madison and Bond counties.

A 60 percent favorable vote was required for retention. Officially, O'Neill was retained by an 82.6 percent margin (63,334 yes to 13,369 no). Moran received a 77.9 percent vote (53,306 to 16,566) and DeLaurenti had 77.9 percent support (57,558 to 16,293).

"I think the result clearly demonstrates the public doesn't want retention judges to pay a wage to the party," O'Neill said. "This strikes a blow for an independent judiciary."

Harrison could not be reached for comment.

LAY A FOUNDATION FOR LIFE

We spend the first part of our lives impatiently waiting to be older. We can't wait to get out of school and on our own so that we can really be "grown up" and able to do what we want without being burdened by the restrictions placed on us by our parents. Then we reach that magical age 21, and we find that being "grown up" is not what we thought it was going to be.

Being "grown up" means working most of our waking hours, paying bills, raising a family and accepting many responsibilities that we never dreamed about when we were younger. Sure, we don't have the restrictions placed on us by our parents, but we have much harsher restrictions, those placed on us by reality.

So what do we do, we begin once again to look ahead. We look for a time when we are free from these responsibilities, when the children are grown and we have retired from our jobs, a time when we can travel and do all of those things what we've always dreamed about, our senior years.

When we then reach senior status, we are once again terribly disappointed. Sure, we have the time to do what we want to do, but many don't have the necessary financial resources, the freedom from responsibility or the energy.

What we have done is to wish our life away. We have always looked to some future time when somehow our life would be better. But what we have failed to do is to lay a foundation today for that future.

In truth, our habits change very little throughout our lifetime, unless we work to change them. A youth who does not develop the ability to see a task through to a conclusion, is unlikely to do so when he goes to work. An adult who spends most of his leisure time in front of the television, is unlikely to travel when he retires. What you do today sets the pattern for what you will do in the future.

Dreams for the future are very important. But without a proper foundation, they are just dreams that they are dreams. Nothing is built without first laying a foundation.

BOB THOMAS
President

The time to lay that foundation for the future is now. Dreams built upon the proper foundation become tomorrow's realities.

Faith Chapel plans early holiday dinner

A revival will begin at Faith Chapel General Baptist Church, 664 Ashland Ave., Mitchell, on Monday and run through Friday, Nov. 18.

The Rev. Jimmy Carroll will be the evangelist. Services, featuring singing, will begin at 7 p.m.

At 6:30 p.m. Nov. 19, the church will host a Thanksgiving dinner in the Fellowship Hall. Those attending should bring a covered dish.

Healy re-enlisted for three years in March.

He spent his leave with his mother, Lucille Healy, of the 3100 block of West Chain of Rocks Road.

Hans and Ruth Jensen of Warsaw Lane have returned from a 15-day visit to New Orleans, where they visited their daughter and son-in-law, Laura and Cliff Doeschner, and granddaughter, Katy.

On the return trip, the Jensens made a side trip to the Pea Ridge Civil War battlefield in Arkansas. This field is said to be the scene of the largest battle fought west of the Mississippi River.

They also visited wild life sanctuaries, in keeping with their interests.

Ada (Carver) Cobourn, Springfield, Ill., a former area resident, was the weekend guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Clifford and Maxine Duniphan.

Marion Hildebrand of Georgetown Drive had as a guest in her home, long-time friend Laura Gillis, Shellsburg, Iowa.

Jonah Uhlman of the 600 block of Barkley Avenue has just received word that she has another great-grandchild, her 19th. The child, a girl, was born Oct. 31 to Uhlman's great-granddaughter Joyce Cole and her husband, Ronald, both of Oklahoma City, Okla.

The baby weighed 6 pounds, 9 ounces, and has been named Brethen Elizabeth. Elizabeth is a family name in Mrs. Uhlman's family and has come down through several generations. Brethen is a fifth-generation Elizabeth.

Mrs. Uhlman will be 92 on Dec. 19.

Flora Raymond, of the 600 block of Chouteau Avenue, celebrated her 81st birthday Saturday at Cristo's Restaurant, St. Louis.

She was accompanied by three of the four daughters and their husbands: C.G. and Shirley Pasley, Lester and Theresa Morgan, and Peggy Raymond.

The group later returned to the Raymond home where they were joined by fourth daughter, Catherine Donaldson, for birthday cake and ice cream.

Mitchell School "Student of the Week" is Greg Miller, who was selected by his teacher, Hank Beiser. Greg was selected for his behavior in the classroom, for his attention to details, and for his completed and well-done homework, Beiser said.

Roy and Thelma Morelan of Paul Drive were surprised Oct. 15 with a party in honor of their 35th wedding anniversary. The party was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 4225 Old Alton Road.

The Plinta Room of the hall was decorated in coral and white. The 35th anniversary color is coral.

The guest table had a centerpiece of coral roses. A three-tiered anniversary cake, baked by Mary Puleo of St. Louis, god-mother of Lynn Morelan, carried out the coral color scheme.

The couple were lured to a fish fry by old friends Harry and Verna Morris and John and Marie Miles.

When they arrived, the hall was filled with music from the Big Band Era.

There were about 60 guests in attendance, who honored the couple with a champagne toast.

The couple received many beautiful gifts. Pictures were taken and a videotape was made.

The party was sponsored and hosted by the couple's four children and their families, including Donna Stallings; Debra Morelan; Dennis Morelan and wife, Lynn; Diane Burnett and husband, Steve; and a nephew Arnet Morelan and his wife, Sharon.

All of the couple's grandchildren were present, including Tim McMahon, Joshua Burnett, Tracy Scharnaski, Nickolle and Adam Stallings, and Brian and Alicia Morelan.

Also present was their only great-grandchild, Benjamin Scharnaski, and Mrs. Morelan's 86-year-old mother, Evelyn Stark.

The hall was decorated by Debra and Sharon Morelan. The food arrangement and display were done by Steve and Diane Burnett and Lynn Morelan.

She was accompanied by three of the four daughters and their husbands: C.G. and Shirley Pasley, Lester and Theresa Morgan, and Peggy Raymond.

State news

Smoking costly, says 'Smoke Out' backer

An intensive study of smoking-related deaths in Illinois during 1985 showed that $2 billion in medical and lost income costs and 180,000 years of potential life were lost due to smoking, said Dr. Bernard J. Turnock, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Turnock is asking smokers to break their addictive habit during the "Great American Smoke Out" on Nov. 17. He said smoking is the major cause of lung cancer and cancer of the larynx, mouth and esophagus, and it is a contributing factor in at least 30 percent of deaths from coronary heart disease and about 90 percent of the deaths from chronic obstructive lung disease.

He said smoking during pregnancy also increases the risk of small babies; low birth weight is the leading cause of infant mortality. Smokeless tobacco or smoking a pipe have also been found to cause cancer, Turnock said.

'Tools for Tourism' theme for conference

The Illinois Regional Tourism Council's fall conference will focus on the growing motorcoach industry as one of the key topics Nov. 30 through Dec. 1 at the Effingham Ramada Inn.

This year's theme will be "Tools for Tourism," and the state's 1989 tourism advertising campaign will be announced.

The conference will feature 14 training programs that will cover topics such as planning successful festivals or special events, to achieving accountability through effective statistical measurement, to sparking a tourism publicity program.

Those who wish a detailed schedule or additional information may call 1-800-458-0363.

Coachmen Caravan event to boost fair

The 22nd International Coachmen Caravan Rally to meet in Du Quoin will bring 2,500 to 3,000 travelers to the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds next summer.

The owners of between 750 and 1,000 recreational vehicles and luxury motor homes will join in the event, which will be held from July 24 to 27 next year. The event includes exhibits of new motor home models, concerts and banquets.

"Because the majority of the travelers will spend two to five days en route to Du Quoin and on their trip home, we will work with local tourism officials to highlight the many parks, lakes and picturesque sites available to campers," Gov. Jim Thompson said.

Sears Tower workers to get help relocating

Gov. Jim Thompson said Monday the full resources of his administration are available to help Sears, Roebuck and Co. find another Illinois location for the 8,000 employees of Sears Merchandise Group, which will move out of Sears Tower.

Sears Merchandise Group is comprised of administrative, buying and marketing offices. In 1987, Sears laid off 1,400 full-time and 400 part-time workers at its Chicago distribution center.

Minority Affairs assistant appointed

Patrick Barclay has been appointed as Gov. Jim Thompson's special assistant for Minority Affairs, succeeding Syd Finley, who became the executive director for the NAACP in Chicago.

Barclay, 29, of Chicago served as assistant staff manager of AT&T Communications prior to his appointment to the governor's office. He was responsible for developing minority recruitment strategy for 10 states in the Midwest region.

His appointment was effective Nov. 7. He will be paid a salary of $35,000.

Heating cost help available for eligible

The Illinois Home Energy Assistance Program (IHEAP) is offering assistance in November to help pay heating costs and energy service reconnection fees for income-eligible senior citizens, people with disabilities or those whose household energy source has been disconnected.

IHEAP helps reduce energy costs by providing a one-time grant to the household or by making payments directly to the utility company on behalf of clients.

Eligibility is based on the number of family members and their combined income. For example, the 30-day income for a family of four must be $1,214 or less to qualify. Income for a single individual for the same period may not exceed $601.

Madison County is served by Madison County Community Development, 130 Hillsboro, Edwardsville, Ill., telephone 692-6200, Ext. 5105.

Democratic party in trouble

If you haven't yet wondered whether or not the Democratic party in Madison County is in deep and serious trouble, the events of the last several days should paint a clearer picture.

The party needs new leadership.

Last week, newspapers throughout the county, including this one, revealed how three campaigning circuit-court judges had been asked to contribute $12,000 each to the party, and, upon refusing, had the support of the party kicked out from under them. As a result, those judges — P.J. O'Neill of Alton, George Moran of Granite City and John DeLaurenti of Greenville — were not among the judges that the party urged be retained in Tuesday's election.

Despite that, and rightfully so, voters saw through this nonsense and sent all three judges back for another term of office.

The party support formula has not changed substantially through the years. Politicians in both major political parties are expected to contribute to those parties, and in return they get the support that frequently gains them elected office.

But the situation in Madison County is not typical politics. In fact, as politics goes, it stinks.

There was a time when the party system helped alert voters to the best qualified candidates for office. Democrats would get behind a man that they thought could do the most to promote the party platform.

But in Madison County Democratic politics, the quality of a candidate does not play as much importance as how much that candidate is willing to pay the kiddy for support.

What does that say about the republic?

It was the decision of Bill Harrison, chairman of the county Democratic Central Committee, not to support the judges. But that came only after those judges refused to pay their "fee" into the party.

Party committee leaders condoned what happened, simply by allowing Harrison the leeway to make the decision. This kind of decision-making, however, has no place in the political process, and certainly it does more harm to the party than good.

Many party members balked at Harrison's decision, and freely campaigned for those judges during the last few days. And there has been significant movement afoot in recent years to wrest control of the party away from those who have had the reins too long. Precinct committees have been talking about this for some time, and perhaps now there is a springboard for reform.

Bill Harrison did nothing else in his blunder, he may have united the disgruntled party members into realizing that they better do something quickly if they want to retain any semblance of integrity for the party. Replacing Bill Harrison as chairman would be a good place to start.

The dirty campaign is over

What a shame it is when the first new congressman from the 21st District in more than 40 years is elected, and all you hear on the street is, "Boy, am I glad that mess is over!"

Such is the sentiment of many in Granite City and surrounding communities who thought they would never see an end to the dirtiest campaign ever staged in this congressional district.

Daily, Republican Robert Gaffner would release his latest "Jerry-finding," forcing challenger Costello to respond or refute. Or even worse, prompt him to report his latest "Bob finding."

Certainly, Jerry Costello has not been without a hint of scandal in the last dozen years, during which time he amassed significant power in St. Clair County politics. At the very worst, none of the allegations were harmful enough to warrant criminal prosecution, and at the very least the daily diatribe looked more like bluff than bite. Voters saw it that way, too.

Costello wouldn't have worked his way to the top without insulting, offending or stepping on someone, because politics produces that kind of scenario. But for an opponent to harp incessantly about topics that don't pan out is beyond the dignity of the campaign.

It is not entirely clear how much support the late Congressman Mel Price would have given his successor, Costello. From some indications, they weren't the closest of friends. But it was to Mel Price's credit that he never revealed his true feelings. An honorable and just man wouldn't have.

Just like he wouldn't have dredged up the campaign tactics used by the Gaffner camp.

Gentlemanly campaigns have been the character of Gaffner in the past. However, he didn't have the fuel for competitive fire with Price that he did with Costello. Did he succumb to temptation? Did the national GOP provide too much of the wrong advice?

In any case, the 8,620-vote difference between winner and loser on Tuesday clearly showed the public had the right idea. "Proven record" sounds better than "broken record" every time.

County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, her staff and volunteers do an amazingly good job in a limited amount of time, and you can see from the statistics that it's not an easy task. We salute their efforts.

Trashy look turns a reader off

To the editor:

The picture of Erv DeRousse on the front page of the Oct. 5, 1988, Granite City Journal was a joke. Other people feel like I do, but are afraid to write. We have all these good ordinances that are not carried out. Why make new ones? Read the old ones.

We put our trash out the evening before trash pickup, look out the next morning and the bags are torn, not by people, either.

Who lets their dogs run loose? They know who they are. We do have a leash law, don't we?

We had one about 1957 or so and it was enforced. It's really nice to have to clean up horse manure at least that is what it looks like, but I sure don't see any horses running loose. If I wanted to clean up dog waste, I would have my own dog.

By the way, when you have the backyard all trashed, you might as well trash the front, too. No wonder the people are selling their homes and moving out of the city.

If we all did it, maybe the city would make national news for being one of the dirtiest cities in the nation.

Toys for tots drive is starting

To the editor:

A group of friends living in the Pontoon Beach area will, for the fifth consecutive year, collect new toys, good used toys and donations for new toys for needy children.

We are not affiliated with any club or organization. But we continue to work to provide a merry Christmas for those who need our help.

Each gift is wrapped in holiday paper, with their name put on the gifts and presented to the parents. We won't take away the dignity of the Mom and Dad who may be out of work.

Even in hard times, they still love their children and it hurts not to be able to buy what they ask for. But a child can't understand it if Santa doesn't bring them gifts.

The help of others who care makes it possible for us to do this.

One person can't do much but when we work together there is much we can do.

We average about 175 names of boys and girls. We select gifts appropriate for each of them. Everyone gets a new gift and we give as many gifts as possible to each one.

We have a drop box at LeRoy's Market on Pontoon Road. Also at the Pontoon Beach Police Station on Route 111. Numbers to call in names are 797-0094, 797-1531 or 931-6524. Any toys or donations are most appreciated.

Anytime you can do something to help make children happy, please do so, for yourself. You will be surprised how good it will make you feel.

Contributions can be made at Colonial Magna Bank also. Please help; thank you. Or call for more information.

Salute to freedom's defenders

To the editor:

Veterans Day, Nov. 11, is the one day each year America remembers her sons and daughters who served in the armed forces of the United States.

We honor those who served when the nation called. They altered their personal lives to maintain America's freedom.

In this century alone, millions have earned the title of veteran. From generation to generation, veterans have served the nation with pride.

It is right that a grateful nation sets aside a day to recognize these men and women for all they have done and continue to do. Veterans are proud of the difference they make for our nation.

Health product claim warning

To the editor:

This year, Americans will spend billions of dollars on health products that do nothing for them — or may even harm them. They want to find simple solutions and shortcuts to better health.

It's hard to resist. Everybody, at one time or another, has seen or heard about a product that can easily solve one's most vexing problem. With this product, they are told, they can eat all they want and still lose weight. Or they can overcome baldness, age, arthritis, even cancer.

Not all advertisements for health products are false. In fact, the vast majority aren't. So just what is quackery? Quackery is the promotion of a medical remedy that doesn't work or hasn't been proven to work.

Today, quackery is known as health fraud. Call it quackery or health fraud, the result is the same — unfulfilled wishes, wasted dollars, and endangered health.

Quack cures rob us of more than money. They can steal health away or even take lives. Quacks may lure the seriously and often desperately ill, such as people suffering from arthritis and cancer, into buying a bogus cure.

When people try quack remedies instead of getting effective medical help, their illnesses progress, sometimes beyond the treatable stage.

When you are looking over ads for medicines and medical devices, watch out for those that seem to promise too much too easily. And investigate, before you participate.

No. 1 at the poll?

Every election, I vow to myself that as long as I've got to go to the polls the minute they open, I'm going to be the first one in line.

Last spring's primary gave me a taste of the elusive No. 1. I would have been first in the poll line place, except an old man cut me off as we both tried to get in the front door.

With renewed confidence Tuesday, I left the house about 5:45, knowing I was a full 10 minutes ahead of schedule. The polls were due to open at 6.

Like a cat, I crept into the parking lot of the local senior center and switched off the lights, as close to the entrance as I could get. I scanned the horizon: Only one other car in sight and the trail of exhaust meant the fella was keeping the engine running to ward off the November chill.

From my vantage point I could see every movement he made, and the moment he cut the motor, I smiled, triumphant, and reached for the handle. But the door didn't budge. Nobody was home.

I decided to wait, acting nonchalant. Problem was that whistling at 6 a.m. next to a common stranger doesn't work. The other guy was suddenly shaking his head. He was on to me.

We waited a few more minutes and began to wonder if we had the right place. Other cars were pulling into the parking lot, but I lost track of the drivers.

More minutes passed, and I casually glanced around. We were still the only two in line. Where was everybody?

Then, it dawned on us. We had the right building. But the wrong entrance! Simultaneously we raced for the rear of the building. My hair had parted down the middle and my tie was still flapping over my shoulder as I reached for the door and threw it back.

The room was full! Crowds everywhere! Again, I had to stand in line. I waited, and voted, and grumbled. I decided on more than one thing Tuesday at the polls.

There's always next election.

Poll workers deserve credit

It's not too frequently that poll workers get much credit for their efforts, but this year we feel some is deserved.

On Tuesday it was estimated that 96,172 persons voted — almost 75 percent of those registered in Madison County. What kind of effort was that? Consider this: There are 221 precincts and 13 voting hours. That averages a little better than one voter every two minutes!

County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, her staff and volunteers do an amazingly good job in a limited amount of time, and you can see from the statistics that it's not an easy task. We salute their efforts.

Shelter building new claims office

A December completion date has been set for the new Shelter Insurance Cos. claims office now under construction at 1022 East Port Plaza Drive in Collinsville.

The new, 5,595-square-foot facility will be the headquarters for six members of Shelter's claims staff and two resident underwriters. The new office will serve policyholders of 16 Shelter agents in southern and central Illinois and Metro East.

The new building will offer policyholders a state-of-the-art drive-in auto claims facility, including automated equipment that will allow the staff to make most estimates in minutes.

The new building, which is on the north frontage road of 1-70/35 near the Collinsville Holiday Inn, will replace Shelter's present leased offices in Edwardsville.

Registration is $40. Discounts are given for additional participants from the same company.

The seminar is a cooperative venture of the regional small business development centers at SIUE, Lewis and Clark Community College, and Kaskaskia College; the Chambers of Commerce in Southwestern Illinois; the Greater Alton-Twin Rivers Growth Association; Belleville Economic Progress; and Laven-thol and Horwath, a national accounting and consulting firm.

The luncheon speaker will be John A. Tatum, assistant vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

Interested persons may obtain additional information or register for the seminar by contacting the Southwestern Illinois Small Business Development Center at SIUE, 692-2929.

About real estate

By Don Campbell

Sometimes taking loss only way to improve life

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I own a home in Phoenix, Ariz., but I wanted so much to move back here that, after a year of trying to sell the house, I decided to rent it out and move anyway. I have an excellent property manager who finds tenants and takes care of necessary repairs. My mortgage payments are $553 a month with a balance of about $44,000. My mortgage rate is 12.5 percent but I receive $31 a month (if no repairs are required), which nets me a $42 loss each month.

I'm not crazy about selling the home at this time because I know I would take at least a $10,000 loss. I have an equity of about $26,000 in it. I would like to turn this situation around and refinance perhaps saving $100 to $150 a month on the mortgage.

I am a single woman renting here (paying $489 a month) and my income is in the $20,000 to $25,000 range. My only tax deductions are on the property in Phoenix. Should I take a huge loss and try to buy something here (which I don't feel comfortable with at this time) or try to refinance and make a losing situation into a winning one? I'm not crazy about paying too much in points and I don't plan on moving back to Phoenix.

Answer: "Comfortable" with the idea or not, I'd move the Phoenix property, take my loss and move on with my life. It is tricky being an absentee landlord under the best of circumstances and because you have no emotional attachment to the Phoenix house, why hang on to it when you could be building a new base back home? Yes, if you could refinance it (and you probably could), you probably would turn that $42 rent item each month into about $50-$60 of black ink, but only after a couple of years when the origination costs have been absorbed. So, what do you have then? A little bit of positive cash flow, of course, but also another 30-year commitment to a house you don't want and one that, in the coming years, is going to require more and more extensive repairs, plus the loss of tax deductions that can better be applied to a home where you now live.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I know you take a dim view of just "walking away" from a house you can't afford, but aren't there any circumstances when it's the only smart thing to do? My daughter and her husband — they're both in their early 20s — are completely over their heads. She's losing his job and can't have a child on the way. What else can they do? The lender won't even talk about taking the house back.

Mr. L.M.C.D.

Answer: In light of the fact that tens of thousands of foreclosures every year go full circle, it's obviously the only escape that a lot of people can find. If the lender won't take the house, or on giving the kids a deed in lieu of foreclosure, and there is definitely no other way out, then that's that. They'll have to take a walk.

Local plant will not build Metro Link rail cars

By Bonita Gower-Tillman
Staff writer

EAST ST. LOUIS — An Alorton railroad freight car manufacturer will not build light rail cars for the proposed Metro Link system in this metropolitan area, the company's owner said last week.

Ronald Thompson, owner of General Railroad and Equipment Services Inc., said assembling the cars at the Alorton plant would be too difficult with that plant's other commitments.

The company, which manufactures and repairs railroad freight cars, could utilize a separate site for the light rail assembly project, he said.

Mayor Carl Officer said the Bi-State Development Agency should use a local company to build the light rail cars. He suggested the agency consider awarding the contract to General Railroad. Companies that build light rail cars are located only in Japan, Canada and France, Thompson said.

However, once a manufacturing company is chosen, the cars will be packaged and sent as kits to a specified U.S. company for assembly.

The manufacturing company would choose the assembler. Thompson said; Bi-State would have no part in that decision.

Although he said General Railroad has not "definitely" expressed interest in the assembly, it is still being considered.

"Our company possesses the kind of expertise that we could use up to a final assembly, but not in our present facility," Thompson said. "It would interfere with our customer and employee commitments we have ongoing."

"We would not want to stop what we're doing and lay off people who're not specifically trained for that and get others who are. It would be too disruptive," he said.

However, he said the company is "exploring and developing" its project. The light rail assembly would be a project opportunity for General Railroad, not a long-term business opportunity, Thompson said.

If we got the assembly contract, we would gear up to assemble these cars and then dismantle," he said. "That's how we'll approach it (the project)."

General Railroad has been in operation since the mid-1960s. Thompson purchased the company in 1980 and it since has done about $115 million in defense and other government contracts.

A $388 million federal grant to build Metro Link was announced at a ceremony Oct. 25.

The 18-mile light rail system will run from East St. Louis to Lambert St. Louis International Airport with stops in downtown St. Louis and in the Central West End.

Construction of the system could begin early next year and be in operation by 1993, Bi-State officials have said.

Bi-State agreed to award 17 percent of the contract to minorities, but Officer said that portion should be at least 25 percent to 30 percent.

Last week, he also challenged the wisdom of having the system run from East St. Louis, considering the economic plight of the city's residents.

"Why shouldn't it go from Scott Air Force Base, Belleville or Collinsville?"

"Something is wrong with this deal," Officer said.

Cleaning up pollution new investment idea

By Sylvia Porter

An American corporation was charged with selling products that allegedly contaminate, rather than purify, drinking water. As a result of cancer-causing filters.

Pollution is expensive. There now is more than $100 billion in outstanding lawsuits against polluters, and that total will grow.

How should you look at the effects of the environment on your investment strategy? While some industries could be harmful when they waste heat up. Among the companies that are likely to be impacted by environmental problems are:

•Chemical and petroleum industries. A single oil spill can result in millions of dollars in liability. Companies can be held liable for unforeseen effects of their products, which can produce gigantic settlements and enormous clean-up bills.

•The insurance industry. While it is now difficult and expensive to get liability insurance against environmental accidents, companies already hold billions of dollars in such policies.

•Agriculture. Modern pesticides and fertilizers have maximized farm productivity, but in more and more cases, they are found to be harmful when they wash into streams and lakes. Reduced use of these chemicals, though, is likely to cut crop yields.

•Real estate. The recent announcement that all homes should be tested for radon simply underlines the problem. People who bought homes 15 years ago in Times Beach, only to find out the town had been contaminated by dioxin, have learned a terrible lesson. As did homeowners near Love Canal in New York. Surprising and sudden developments can reduce property values to virtually nothing almost overnight.

But some industries are likely to thrive as a result of the mess we have made.

•Recycling companies. Aluminum cans have been recycled for some time, as has paper. Paper recycling is especially likely to become more profitable in coming years.

•Waste disposal companies. The use of acid rain pollution has reduced pulpwood crops, driving up the cost of paper. The Environmental Protection Agency and many states and municipalities have instituted programs designed to make recycling more attractive.

•Waste disposal companies. This can be a mine field for the investor, because many such companies have been laced with corruption. New laws being considered at the federal level and by many states are expected to produce a new generation of companies with the technical capability to handle waste properly.

•Garbage disposal companies. The tragicomic plight of the New York garbage barge last year illustrates a leading problem facing the country: We're producing a lot of trash and don't know what to do with it.

•Research and testing. The environmental problems that are with us today are just the tip of the iceberg. The long-term effects of pollution in its many forms are being studied, and solutions must be found if the planet is to survive.

•Carbon dioxide pollution must be developed if the terrifying specter of the greenhouse effect is to be halted. Private industry will provide many of those solutions.

How can you weigh these factors as you consider investments? First, consider the potential exposure of a company to environmental liability. Be on guard.

Types of community organizations soliciting funds discussed

By Neil F. Hartigan

Illinois attorney general

Q. What types of organizations usually solicit donations in a community?

A. Many police and firefighter organizations were established in the 1920s and 1930s to help provide life, accident and health insurance benefits for those serving on the force.

Today, such organizations sometimes fulfill other purposes such as improving working conditions for police officers and firefighters, promoting fellowship and establishing athletic programs for youths.

However, the names of the organizations do not always reveal the nature of their programs, so it is important for a detailed description of the services the organization provides.

It is also important to ask whether contributions are tax-deductible, as different types of police and firefighter organizations are tax-exempt under different sections of the Internal Revenue Code.

Other charitable organizations are generally operated for religious, charitable, scientific or educational purposes.

Volunteer firefighters generally are local associations that raise funds for fire equipment or facilities. They sometimes work closely with local governments and/or fire departments in providing a community with fire protection services.

Fraternities, fraternal societies, orders, or associations generally operate under a "lodge" type system or for the exclusive benefit of the fraternity's members. They offer life, health, or accident insurance benefits to the membership.

Some other organizations operating under a lodge type system do not provide insurance benefits. The net earnings of such organizations should be devoted exclusively to religious, charitable, educational or fraternal purposes.

Q. If you have been solicited by any of these types of organizations and are not certain about their legitimacy, call your local Attorney General's Office, your local Better Business Bureau, or your Chamber of Commerce.

Q. Are there laws to regulate these types of solicitations?

A. Most states regulate solicitations by police and firefighter organizations through statutes that refer generally to charitable solicitations, fraud, and misrepresentation.

Because there is so little regulation that applies to police and firefighter groups, it is especially important for individuals and businesses to find out as much information as possible when and to be on guard whenever funds are raised in the name of police officers or firefighters.

While there are many police and firefighter organizations that are worthy of your support, there are also many that have taken advantage of people's respect and concern for these public servants. If you have been solicited and feel suspicious about a particular organization, contact your local Attorney General's Office.

Q. Should I give to police and firefighter organizations?

A. Giving to any charitable or non-charitable organization is a personal decision. It is up to you to decide whether an organization is worthy of support. Perhaps what is most important is that you are satisfied that you have enough information from the organization to make an informed decision.

All police and firefighter organizations should not be considered suspect; most have been involved in activities that have benefited both the force and the public. However, it is always advisable to ask questions to ensure that your donation will be wisely used.

Two offices ransacked

Burglars forced a rear door to get inside Creative Travel in the 3900 block of Nameoki Road, it was reported Nov. 4. The office was ransacked, desk drawers were dumped out and a microwave oven valued at $400 and a 12-inch television monitor worth $250 were stolen. An office also was ransacked at a connecting business.

Pickup truck looted

Harold Krohn Jr. of Bermuda Lane reported Nov. 4 that while his pickup truck was parked in the 1400 block of Niedringhaus Avenue, a burglar pried the truck's rear sliding glass window and stole an AM-FM cassette stereo valued at $225 and an equalizer. The dashboard also was damaged by the thief.

Two charges against man

Anthony Joseph Wallace, 22, of the 2200 block of Ohio Avenue was charged with criminal damage to state-supported land and criminal trespass to state-supported land when arrested Nov. 4.

Sally Moneymaker of the 2800 block of Kirkpatrick Homes alleged Wallace broke a glass in the storm door and was sleeping on the couch when she got home.

She reported the incident at the police station and said Wallace had been told to stay away from the apartment.

License warrant served

While investigating an incident at Kirkpatrick Homes on Nov. 4, officers saw Paul D. Green, 17, of the 1200 block of Madison Avenue, Madison, and arrested him on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving without a valid driver license.

$1,200, necklace stolen

A sliding glass door was damaged by a burglar who entered the home of Jed Michael Perkins of the 2500 block of Revere's Route and stole $1,200 and an 18-inch gold necklace worth $300 on Nov. 4.

Two men charged with child delinquency count

Two 18-year-old men were arrested Nov. 6 and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a child.

Christian Emil Paul and Eugene Woodrow Paul, Parktown West mobile home park, were arrested at a home in the 2700 block of Cayuga Street where they told police they were keeping an eye on the house while the tenant was away. Police went to the Cayuga address in response to a report that a 14-year-old girl, reported missing Oct. 19, was staying there. Police reported finding the girl there, hiding under some pillows on a waterbed. Police believe the girl was staying at the residence, because of the fact that she was dressed in a nightgown and personal items were found.

The Pauls were arrested on complaints filed by the girl's mother. The girl was released to her mother.

Police also reported finding a 16-year-old girl staying in the house. She was released to her mother, who declined to sign a complaint.

Boy in road injured

A 16-year-old boy was reported seriously injured at 12:49 a.m. Nov. 11 when he was struck by a car in the 2500 block of Madison Avenue.

Domino Valencia, 36, Mitchell, reported he was driving north on 25th Street when he saw the boy lying in the street. Valencia reported he was unable to stop in the wet pavement and skidded into the boy, who was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center by Granite City ambulance.

Woman struck in face

Vicki E. Parker, 25, of the 2300 block of Bryan Avenue reported Nov. 4 that, after a verbal argument with a man, he struck her with his fist. Her nose was injured and she had a blackened eye.

Garbage truck, pickup involved in collision

During a rainstorm about 4 p.m. Nov. 4, Raymond E. Ross, 27, Arnold, Mo., was backing a garbage truck from an alley in the 900 block of 25th Street and struck the side of a pickup truck traveling east on 25th.

Minor injuries were sustained by George C. Arnold, 68, of the 700 block of 26th Street, driving the pickup, and his passenger, Wilma D. Arnold, 63, of the same address. The garbage truck is owned by Laidlaw Waste Management Co., Edwardsville.

Illinois 3 collision

Vehicles operated by Christ Antonopoulos, 63, of the 1200 block of Iowa Street, Madison, who sustained an injury, and Harold W. Swearingin, 42, of the 1200 block of West Ponton Road collided during a rainstorm at 6:12 a.m. Nov. 4 at Illinois 3 and Niedringhaus Avenue.

VCB stolen from van

Leon White Jr., an employee of Bert's Rentals, 1920 Delmar Ave., told police he parked his delivery van outside an apartment in the 100 block of Lee Wright Homes to pick up a television and, while he was in the home, a video cassette recorder valued at $349 was stolen from the van.

Vandals paint building

Vandals sprayed black paint, damaging the brick walls at McManaway Insurance Agency, 509 block of Madison Avenue, Nov. 2. Paint also damaged two plate glass windows and a glass door, as well as the walls.

Burglar pries lock open

Nothing was immediately determined to be missing from a garage and small shed at the home of Helen Bisto, 1006 Greenwood St., where a lock was pried on the front door of the garage Nov. 4.

Venice police

Investigating a report of two men attempting to sell items from a vehicle, officers stopped a car Oct. 24 at Bissell and Meredith streets. One man in the auto said he owned the items being sold.

Larry G. Nolan, 47, Cahokia, the die, plus Ben E. Eddleman, 30, Imperial, Mo., and a man from East St. Louis, were taken to police headquarters for questioning. Fifteen shotgun shells and eight hypodermic syringes allegedly were among the items in the car.

Two hypodermic syringes allegedly were in Eddleman's possession when the car was stopped were not in his pocket upon arrival at the police station, authorities said; syringes were found under a seat in the patrol car.

Eddleman was charged with unlawful possession of a hypodermic and with not having a firearm owner identification card and was released after posting $204 bail.

Nolan was booked on the same charges and released on $125 bail. Both men are to appear for a hearing Nov. 25.

Vacant home burns again

A fire occurred at 2:05 a.m. Oct. 27 at a vacant frame house at 205 Hampden St., where a fire had resulted in extensive damage Oct. 18.

A neighbor saw the latest blaze and called police. Fire Chief Willie Dumas asked the Madison County Arson Squad to investigate.

Vans on truck looted

Three vans on top of a tractor-trailer truck, parked at Brown and McKinley streets, were looted of three 9-inch color televisions and three folders, containing keys and titles to the vehicles, it was reported Oct. 23 by Raymond Crane, 1225 Robin St.

Stolen from the tractor cab were a citizen band radio, an AM-FM radio, a radar detection device and the vehicle's registration. A cab door was pried to enter the truck.

Utility meters stolen

Gas and electric meters were stolen from the home of Janice Rappaport, 635 Jefferson Ave., where a basement window was broken by an intruder, she reported Oct. 22.

Garage, autos looted

A burglar pried a door off its hinges with an iron rod and broke a side window to get inside a garage and a shed at the home of Sam Chomko in the 900 block of Reynolds Street, he reported Nov. 4.

Two vehicles inside the garage were burglarized. A window in a car owned by Ricky Barnett of the 2100 block of Collinsville Avenue was smashed. The thief tore the dashboard away and removed the radio.

In an auto belonging to Chomko, the rear seat and package rack were ripped out to gain access to the rear speakers, which were stolen. The dashboard also was torn out in an attempt to remove the radio, and the glove box was ransacked, Chomko said.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

People sometimes perform services for an elderly person prior to the senior citizen's death. Is the provider of services entitled to be compensated for his efforts following the death of the elderly person? This may depend upon whether the help provided was requested by the dependent person and whether it was necessary.

Let's look at an example from a case which arose in 1982 in Illinois. In this situation, a man and his wife provided all meals for an elderly friend from 1977 until her death in 1982. The wife also performed the housecleaning chores for the decedent and did most of her laundry. The husband and wife also made sure that the elderly friend took her medicine on a daily basis with the proper dosages. Finally, the husband took care of her lawn, handled her financial affairs, and provided transportation for her to visit her doctors during this five year period.

After the friend's death the husband and wife filed claims against the estate of the deceased seeking $5,000 for services performed on her behalf during her lifetime. The executor of the estate contested these claims and argued that the friends failed to establish that the decedent requested the services and expected to pay for the help. Should the Plaintiffs be paid for their years of assistance to the elderly friend or were they mere volunteers providing unnecessary and unrequested services?

Illinois Courts recognize an implied promise to pay for necessary services when there is no actual agreement between the parties. This is based on the fundamental principle that no one should receive care and support in these cases and thus be "unjustly enriched at another's expense" without paying for the services. Thus where useful services are knowingly and voluntarily accepted by the decedent in these matters the law will presume there was an expectation of being paid and the Courts will imply a promise to pay.

This was the decision reached by the Appellate Court in our example. They felt the elderly lady was unable to take care of herself, and that the husband and wife provided needed services over a five year period which were voluntarily accepted by the decedent. Under these circumstances the Court found there was an implied promise to pay for the care, and that the sum of $5,000 was a reasonable value for these services.

Regional

Overseas bases need study, but Pentagon didn't have time

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winter

It obviously was poorly worded. It not only transferred their decision-making power to someone else, but made it impossible for that someone else to carry out the task intelligently.

DIXON AND COSTELLO, incidentally, were in my thoughts because they made a surprise visit to the Press-Record/Journal office several days before the Nov. 8 general election.

They were campaigning together because Costello's effort to remain in Congress. Dixon doesn't have to seek reelection for four years but knows it is wise to keep in touch with the public.

Both reside in Belleville (and Washington). Both have been active in recent weeks in trying to emphasize the importance of keeping the 46-year-old Charles Melvin Price Support Center, Granite City, in active use.

THE ILLINOISANS are making the point that, budgetwise, not as many U.S. bases would have to be closed if the Department of Defense also closed a few, but not all, of its bases overseas.

This makes sense from a number of standpoints, including the desire for Japan and other prosperous countries to begin picking up a bigger portion of the cost of the free world's defense.

With the United States having become the biggest debtor nation, it is unrealistic for Uncle Sam to continue footing most of the cost of keeping troops, planes and naval vessels at strategic points around the globe.

SEN. DIXON REVEALED this weekend that the Pentagon has admitted it did not have adequate time to conduct a thorough review of overseas U.S. military installations before recommending that none of them be closed.

Chairman of the Subcommittee on Readiness, Sustainability and Support of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Dixon said, "The Pentagon study team relied on responses from unified and specified commanders to questionnaires about the military basing structure and requirements."

"The report found there was not adequate time for the study team to do extensive field work."

"IN SHORT, NO ONE from this Pentagon study team, no one from the commission, no one from the commission staff, has yet taken the questionnaire results and visited any of the more than 1,500 overseas U.S. facilities."

The senator said the Pentagon report was "ludicrous and beyond belief."

He commented that the American taxpayer "deserves considerably more than this report provides."

Dixon was informed about the extent of the report in a letter from Deputy Secretary of Defense William H. Taft to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Dixon fought against passage of the base-closings bill partly on grounds that the review process was "irrelevant which installations do or don't have construction projects in progress."

make a thorough review. He added:

"THIS CONFIRMS my worst fears as to how the Defense secretary's Commission on Base Realignment and Closure is approaching this task."

"The more than 1,500 U.S. overseas bases constitute nearly 25 percent of the U.S. military construction budget."

"Yet, when we are trying to trim costs, the department is saying a quarter of the military construction budget cannot be touched."

Earlier, when the Senate passed the bill Oct. 12, over his opposition, Dixon said, "By mandating the completion of the commission's work by the end of this (calendar) year, I believe we are asking for exactly the kind of product we are all trying to avoid."

"THE REALITY is that the short time left to the commission after enactment of this legislation will almost certainly lead to a rubber stamp of the military services' closure recommendations — rather than an unbiased, independent analysis."

Granite Citizens certainly haven't given up on retaining the local Defense personnel support center, which serves the entire bi-state metropolitan area. But the scheduled Nov. 21 ground-breaking for 100 new apartments at the Granite City base does not give them full reassurance.

In the quick, no-depth study being made, it may be entirely irrelevant which installations do or don't have construction projects in progress.

GC Steel volunteers join Old Newsboys Day workers

By Valerie Evenden Staff writer

For the fourth consecutive year, more than 20 volunteers from Granite City Steel will serve as Old Newsboys Day salesmen on Thursday, Nov. 17.

Ronnie Achenbach, a Granite City Steel employee who works in the BOF (Basic Oxygen Furnace) Department, said the plant workers are trying for top sales of 1,500 special edition copies of the Suburban Journals newspaper in next Thursday's charitable endeavor.

"We were the top sellers in the area last year," Achenbach said.

He noted that volunteers from the steel mill sold 1,200 copies in 1987.

"We've set the goal higher this year," he said.

The volunteers at Granite City

Steel will offer special edition copies to patrons at the Nash Street entrance to the steel plant on 20th Street, at the 16th Street gate, at Madison Avenue and 20th Street, and near the Granite City Steel Office Building at 20th and State streets.

The local workers will join forces with the Suburban Journals and thousands of community volunteers throughout the metropolitan area to raise money for area children.

Every penny collected from the sale of the special Old Newsboys Day edition will be contributed for the direct benefit of children.

Last year, a record $241,757 was raised throughout the bi-state metropolitan area and distributed to 228 children's agencies, including many in Illinois.

This year's goal is $300,000.

A cautious Keaton has hits and misses

By Frank Hunter
Staff affiliate

New York City's streets are wet with gentle rain as Diane Keaton arrives for interviews wearing a black suit with a huge red rose pinned at the shoulder.

Wearing tiny round sunglasses ("completely cosmetic," she laughs easily, bringing with her an aura of energy and amused enthusiasm that brightens the room and defies the day.

A reporter at a press gathering following the New York screening of Keaton's film, "The Good Mother," asks her whether she finds talking to the press irksome and intimidating. Especially since "The Good Mother" is bound to stir up controversy with its story of a recently divorced mother's passionate attachment to a lover who makes her feel beautiful, happy and sexually liberated for the first time in her life.

"I'm not uneasy with reporters, although I haven't had many intimate experiences with them," she admits with a sly giggle.

"Maintaining privacy isn't difficult as long as a woman is true to herself in conducting her life. Regardless of the media attention, my life goes on as unchanged as I can make it. Acting classes, singing lessons, gym classes, the rest of the time I just concern myself with doing the best I can with film work. Otherwise things get confusing."

"The Good Mother" is based on Sue Miller's successful novel, and Keaton insists producer Arnold Glimcher and director Leonard Nimoy might not have chosen her to play divorcee Anna Dunlap opposite Liam Neeson (who plays her Irish lover, sculptor Leo Cutter).

But "Baby Boom" caught her attention. "If that film hadn't become a hit, they probably wouldn't have considered me," Keaton says. "And I was hesitant about doing the part because of the bedroom stuff in Mike Bortman's screenplay. After all, I'm 42 years old and the story and notion of appearing in fairly explicit scenes on screen made me uncomfortable.

"I come from a close-knit, middle-class family from Santa Ana, Calif., and that's very conservative country. My mother was once elected 'Housewife of the Year' and my dad is a successful real estate broker. So I guess I'll always be concerned with what people think of me doing scenes like the ones in 'The Good Mother' although I had plenty of clothes on and I really do like Liam Neeson a lot.

"Leonard Nimoy talked to me about these fears and made me feel better. He thought I might have been burned by the public's alarm in 1976 over 'Looking For Mr. Goodbar' and he may be right."

In "Goodbar," Keaton played a sexually promiscuous woman who meets a good end in the film based on Judith Rossner's novel of the same name.

With the exception of the overly commercial "Baby Boom," the actress hasn't had a big hit since Woody Allen's "Mistral" in 1979.

"There are just certain roles I'm right for although I read a tremendous number of scripts, most of them not very well written," she says. "The stories generally aren't unique; they're too general, and I like nuances and rather quirky characters as a rule."

In "Baby Boom," Keaton played a perfectly dressed and coiffed career woman who inherits a toddler and agonizes over the choice of remaining a corporate whiz or becoming a super mom.

Her success in the 1970s in friend and mentor Woody Allen's films came as a comedienne in "Play It Again Sam," "Sleepers," "Love and Death" and "Annie Hall," for which she won an Oscar for Best Actress.

She played supporting dramat-

ic roles in Allen's first "serious" film, "Interiors," and in Francis Coppola's two "Godfather" films. She also received good notices for Richard Brooks' "Looking For Mr. Goodbar" and the 1981 historical romance, "Reds," a film that earned Keaton an Oscar nomination for best actress and might have fared better at the box office had Warner Beatty not stubbornly refused to promote the picture.

Her co-starring role with Mel Gibson in 1984's artsy romantic drama "Mrs. Soffel," went largely unnoticed amid the glut of Christmas releases. In "Crimes of the Heart" in 1986, Keaton appeared opposite Jessica Lange and Sissy Spacek. The film was a critical success; Spacek got the Oscar nomination.

Keaton, an actress worshipped by the New York media, believes "The Good Mother" will appeal to people able to identify with the loss of a child or a parent.

And she looks forward to directing more music videos, like one she did for pop star Belinda Carlisle. But she balks at the idea of becoming a producer.

"If you haven't any ideas of your own, you have to wait for things to happen. I'm not good at that, nor am I good on the phone as a great seducer of the talent that's in the cards," she says, adding that she parked her "Annie Hall" Oscar at her parents' home because "it's safer there."

She seems only mildly interested in continuing celebrity and heaps of money. "I'd rather participate in life in a way that feels good," she says.

'Art St. Louis' exhibit shows off 100 artists

By Paul A. Harris
Staff affiliate

The Art St. Louis exhibition, showing on the sixth floor at Gateway One in downtown St. Louis, doesn't seem to reveal any sort of regionalism among the 100 area artists whose works are included.

Scattered among the drawings, paintings, assemblages and sculptures is a keen sense of humor. It is evident in Linda Slovic's "Carmen Miranda Paper Doll Chain," a florid, manic assemblage which seems to take its direction from the macabre decor of Mexico's Day of the Dead. Humor and allegory blend in Ken Koubouk's "Man and Woman in Apartment A," a clever, highly detailed painting executed on ceramic tiles. Both of these are rooted in folk art.

Abstract paintings and sculptures abound in this exhibit, and some are quite effective. William Harrold's "Smile" consists of a nude figure. Almost magically, the abrupt cropping stimulates the senses to complete the image.

More purely abstract is Sylvia Giblin's beautiful wallhanging sculpture "Solito." Made of long black strips of cast paper draped over a brass saddle, the work is both imposing and elegant, brooding like a lone crow perched on a power line, against a stark winter background.

Carol Carter's "Torcher" is a searing acrylic painting that uses an ordinary lawn chair as an abstract image. Carter's forceful electric colors give the picture's mundane subject a sense of trailing effervescence. It seems hot and cool at the same time.

Pennie Brantley Greenwell's oil painting, "Gemini on a Red Hot Night," fuses abstraction with a baroque-seeming photorealism. The view in this compelling painting is of billowing clouds drifting across a moonlit sky, seen through a window atop a heating register.

Ken Mort's "Under Crossing Over," a watercolor with a slightly Oriental feel, is a vivid dreamscape. Deceptively complex, Mort's painting gives an overhead perspective of a swimmer crossing under a foot bridge that diagonally divides the painting.

Each of the 100 works in the Art St. Louis exhibit was selected by a panel of three jurors from slide entries by the artists. It will hang through Nov. 27 on the sixth floor of Gateway One on the Mall, at Seventh and Market streets, St. Louis. There is no fee to enter the gallery; it is open to the public 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and noon to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Those who wish more information may call (314) 241-1127.

Local lodges to give $10,000 to students

GRANITE CITY — Noble Grands Rick Barnett and Christy Clark of Independent Order of Odd Fellows Tri-City Lodge 1081 and Rebekahs Del-Ray Lodge 786 have announced the availability of $10,000 in scholarship awards for the 1989-90 school year.

Scholarships will be awarded based on financial need and scholastic ability. Students must be U.S. citizens and Illinois residents and have a "C" average or better to be eligible.

Three $1,000 and several $500 scholarships will be awarded. Students needing more information or a scholarship form may write to Robert A. Wick, Grand Secretary, Grand Lodge of Illinois Independent Order of Odd Fellows, 305 North Kickapoo St., P.O. Box 248, Lincoln, Ill.

Requests for applications must be received no later than Dec. 1, 1988. No applications will be mailed after that date. Completed applications must be returned to the Grand Lodge Office before March 1, 1989.

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, among the world's oldest fraternal organizations, participate in numerous local community programs.

Their own projects include the 100% Eye Bank and Visual Research Foundation, United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth, World Hunger and Disaster Fund, National Arthritis Foundation, Tournament of Roses parade held every New Year's Day, and a recent endorsement of the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program.

Selected for 'Who's Who'

Kathryn Charter, a Granite City High School senior, has been selected for publication in the 1987-88 edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Only 5 percent of high school students are recognized annually.

Venice lists events for education week

VENICE — Venice High School has announced an activity schedule for American Education Week Nov. 14-18. The week's theme is "America's Schools: Invest in Your Future."

Chairman of the events, Juanita Long, encouraged parents and friends to attend the activities, specially designed to include students, faculty and parents.

On Monday, parents can visit individual classrooms from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Tuesday is "Teacher Appreciation Day" and students are asked to dress up. The Venice Grade School will also hold a balloon launch that afternoon. On Wednesday, "Lunch with Parents" will be featured from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Students and their parents will be served a Thanksgiving meal for the occasion. Following the luncheon, Ida Woolfolk, aide to St. Louis Public School superintendent, will speak at 1:10 p.m. on the week's theme.

On Thursday, teachers will be treated to a breakfast hosted by the Venice PTA. There will also be a Beta Club ceremony and the Lincoln Jazz Band from East St. Louis will be featured in the gym from 1 to 2 p.m.

To round out the week, Friday is "School Colors Day" and students are encouraged to sport the school's colors of red and white.

Eastern halts fall admissions

CHARLESTON — Due to an unprecedented number of applicants, Eastern Illinois University has imposed a cutoff of freshmen and senior college transfer admissions for fall semester 1989 which went into effect Oct. 28.

The university also plans an enrollment reduction during the next five years.

Eastern currently has a record enrollment of 10,510, nearly 4 percent over last year. Freshman applications are 83 percent above the number received at this time last year.

"We regret the need to close undergraduate admission for the fall semester, but we are pleased that more students want to attend Eastern than we have the resources or facilities to accommodate," President Stan

Rives said. In a letter sent to all high schools and public community colleges in Illinois, the university had announced the possibility of an early cutoff.

Immediately affected by the cutoff are freshmen and undergraduate transfers except those transfers from Illinois public community colleges. However, officials caution that it may be necessary to close enrollments even to those students.

Other categories currently exempt from the closing include former students applying for readmission, graduate applicants, minority applicants, and applicants who are recipients of designated institutional scholarships and awards.

"We have no alternative to reducing further enrollment to a level that we can effectively serve with the resources available to us," Rives said. "The alternative is certain deterioration of the quality of our educational program... something we cannot allow to happen to our university."

Without increased funding, Rives said Eastern will admit approximately 200 fewer students a year during the next five years. He said the university must maintain flexibility to adjust the figure upward or downward depending on actual appropriations and protection of Eastern's future vitality.

"Put simply, we cannot continue to offer a quality academic program by serving more students with less state support," Rives said.

Memories of a third-place weekend

Stone makes all-tournament team

Scott Stone was the only Warrior to make the all-tournament team from last weekend's state soccer tournament in Palatine.

Stone, the senior striker with the blazing speed, figured in all three Granite City goals in the tournament. He scored twice and set up Matt Cook's goal with two seconds left in regulation time for the 2-1 win over St. Charles in the quarterfinals.

State champion Buffalo Grove had six of the 11 players named to the all-tournament team, as voted on by members of the media. Goalkeeper Matt Nagy had shutouts in two of the three games, allowing only the goal by Stone in the semifinals. Other all-tournament selection from the Bison included senior forward Barry Treiving, who led all tournament scorers with four goals and an assist; junior forward Mike Byrne (winning goal vs. the Warriors); senior sweeper Niko Kotcherba; junior forward Brian McBride (one goal, one assist); and senior halfback Mike Steele.

Other all-tournament selections were Todd Moore (one goal, one assist) and Mario Medina of Moline, who tied for third with the Warriors; Jim Davidson (two goals, one assist) of second-place Naperville Central; and Rick Goettel of St. Charles.

A vote here went to Chris Nolan for his steady and aggressive play. But unless a player

On this page is one final look at a wet, dreary weekend in suburban Chicago. It wasn't everything the Warriors (12-4 on the field, 12-13 overall) and their fans hoped for. But in a season almost completely decimated by a teachers strike, third place in the state isn't too bad.

BARRY TREIVING of Buffalo Grove typified the mood of the eventual state champion Bison after scoring the tying goal against Granite City in Saturday's semifinal.

TROY ADAMITIS was dejection personified moments after the semifinal loss. It marked the end of Adamitis' Granite City career, as he is moving to San Diego with his family this week.

JOHN VANBUSKIRK goes high in the air for another header during quarterfinal action. The lanky junior, who wins almost every head ball he goes after, figures to be the top player in the area as a senior in 1989.

Flyers derail Lancers' upset bid

By David Wilhelm
Staff affiliate

BELLEVILLE—For more than a moment on a snowy and windy Saturday afternoon, it appeared the Belleville East Lancers were going to shock East St. Louis and its cold contingent of fans gathered at Township Stadium.

But like a thief in the night, the Flyers broke through a 13-6 Lancers' lead in the third quarter on their way to a 26-15 victory in the second round of the Class 6A playoffs.

The Flyers (11-0) will host Pekin (10-1) in a quarterfinal game at Parsons Field on Saturday at 1 p.m. The Lancers finished at 8-3.

"We've been playing better of late," said East St. Louis Coach Bob Shannon. "You gotta feel good about the Southwestern Conference. Both teams played well. I gotta give (Lancers' coach) Mike McGinnis credit. He had his team prepared well."

That's for sure. The Lancers were a fired-up bunch early in the game, and field goals of 26 and 29 yards by Tony Wells had them thinking and believing an upset was in the works.

But following Wells' second field goal with 3:58 remaining in the first half, the Flyers showed off their explosive offense, driving 74 yards on nine plays. Quarterback Vernon Powell, who started the drive with a 22-yard run, also ended it with a 1-yard surge. The extra point was no good and it was 6-0.

With field conditions deteriorating quickly, it appeared the first team to score in the second half would hold a decided advantage.

Following an unproductive possession to start the second half, the Flyers' Willie Fox had his punt blocked by Pedro Whiteley. The ball bounced into the end zone, where East's Todd Seelman fell on it for a touch-down. Wells' extra point made it 13-6 with 9:53 left in the third quarter.

"We still have to work on our punting," said Shannon.

But the Flyers, as if they were waiting for the right moment, struck quickly. On their first play from scrimmage, Powell hit 5-7, 150-pound speedster Cecil Hawkins with a perfect pass down the sidelines, and Hawkins ran untouched into the end zone for a touchdown. The Lancers, however, still led 13-12 after another extra-point attempt by De Carlos Nicholson was no good.

"You wouldn't believe this, but three of the last times we've played Belleville East we came back to score on the first or second play after they've scored," said Shannon.

Seelman's fumble on East's next possession was recovered by the Flyers' Jolivet Lang at the 50. A 20-yard pass from Powell to Hawkins and a 9-yard run by Lagrant Suggs moved the Flyers to the Lancers' 7. Five plays later, Suggs went into the end zone from two yards out to give East St. Louis its first lead of the game, 18-13. The two-point conversion failed.

"That turnover hurt us," said McGinnis. "They took that and put it in for a score. The big thing was them scoring off that turnover."

"I wish we had that little Hawkins guy. He makes things tough."

The Lancers had one more chance early in the fourth quarter, but could drive only to the Flyers' 39 before Wells had to punt.

East St. Louis' clinching touchdown came when Powell recovered his own fumble and eluded several Lancers all the way into the end zone for a 49-yard touchdown.

"I think what happened was he (Powell) got on the secondary people faster than they anticipated," said Shannon. "After that, we knew we had 'em. It was a great play. It's what we really needed then."

As if that wasn't disheartening enough to the Lancers, the Flyers were then successful on a strange two-point conversion.

Holder Rollie Nevilles recovered a high snap and scrambled to the right before heaving a desperation pass in the direction of Dion Dean. Somehow, Dean came down with the ball and a rather unorthodox conversion.

"I'll stop on that one," said McGinnis, obviously frustrated with the way Lady Luck had smiled on the Flyers.

The Lancers' final points came when Powell ran the ball out of the Flyers' end zone for a safety with just 13 seconds left in the game.

"All in all, we played well," said Shannon. "I thought we showed character when we needed it. Belleville East has a big, strong, tough defense. We were able to do some things. We couldn't do all we wanted, but we came away with a win and that's what we came here for."

GC native Chappell coaching promising prep tennis squad

Laura Chappell, the daughter of Granite City High School golf coach Russ Chappell, has launched a promising career as girls' tennis coach at Central High School in St. Joseph, Mo.

Chappell guided her team to an 11-3 record and boasted of the state 4A singles champion in sophomore Joan Heckman. Heckman was 20-2 and defeated Corina Gunter of Webster Groves 6-4, 6-3 in the state title match. Heckman also plays in Missouri Valley competition and the Show Me Games.

Laura Chappell is a graduate of Granite City High School and just completed her first year at Central. Of her top seven players, only one was a senior this year. She had four freshmen, one sophomore and one junior.

The team took second in districts to advance to the sectional. Central lost in the first round of the sectional 5-4 to Blue Springs. The sectional winner

Laura Chappell went on to take third in the state. "We are definitely a contender in team competition the next two years," said Chappell.

Freeburg Christmas tourney needs team

Freeburg High School needs another team for its 16-team boys' basketball tournament Dec. 26-29.

Unbeaten Assumption rolls on with 21-0 win

By Curtis Duncan Jr.
Staff writer

EAST ST. LOUIS—The Assumption Pioneers used their muscle, speed and size to wear down the Dupu Tiger defense in Saturday's Class 2A second round playoff game.

The Pioneers (11-0), with their raw, straight-ahead offense, pounded out yard after yard on the smallest Tiger defense as they rolled to a 21-0 victory.

The victory was the biggest yet in Pioneer coach Jim Monken's career at Assumption.

"We've been wanting to get to this point for a long time and I'm glad we're here at this stage of the playoffs," said Monken, whose team will travel to Carlyle (11-0) for a state quarterfinal game at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The Pioneers, the top-rated small school team in the Journal poll, came out early in the first quarter with their punishing ground attack.

After getting the opening kickoff, Assumption drove 55 yards in 12 plays to take a 6-0 lead. The drive was capped by Armando Fisher's one-yard touchdown dive. The two-point conversion failed.

The Pioneer offense went to work again in the second quarter at the Tiger 40. This time the Pioneers needed only seven plays to score as Jacques Norris scampered in from 15 yards out to make it 12-0 with 6:23 left in the half.

Quarterback Vernon Slaughter ran in the two-point conversion, making it 14-0.

Assumption had one more chance to score just before halftime. But the Tiger defense stopped Slaughter on a fourth down scramble at the Dupu 1 with 11 seconds left.

The Tiger defense was the lone bright spot of the day.

Defense was all the Tigers (8-3) could muster as they were held to 12 yards total offense.

The Pioneers also shut down senior halfback Derek Tieman. Tieman, who ran for 100 yards and three touchdowns in the Tigers' 19-14 first-round playoff win over Alton Marquette, was held to just 12 yards on 10 carries.

"They really shut down Tieman about our whole offense today," Mauser said. "We tried everything except the polecat, but they were ready for us today."

For Tieman (1,440 yards and 31 touchdowns), it was his last high school game.

The Pioneer line paved the way for 30 yards total offense Saturday.

Fighting Illini quarterback Jeff George will scramble against bloodthirsty Wolverines—Michigan, No. 1 in the Big Ten—for another shot at the Rose Bowl.

Pushing For Petals Before Rosy Glow, Illini Have Giant To Kill

By Jim Woodcock
Journal Staff Writer

John Mackovic didn't promise a rose garden for 1988 when he assumed the Illinois football coaching job.

But when Mackovic celebrates his anniversary as coach with the Illini in January, it's possible that he already will have provided Illinois with the ultimate bouquet—a Rose Bowl appearance.

A series of hurdles to the Jan. 1 game in Pasadena, Calif., remains ahead for the Illini, not the least of which is the University of Michigan.

The first-place Wolverines (5-0-1, 6-2-1) would clinch the Big Ten title and their second Rose Bowl berth in three seasons with a victory Saturday over the surprising Illini in Ann Arbor (noon, KXOK-AM, 630).

But if the Illini (4-1-1, 5-3-1) manage to upend Michigan, the nation's No. 13 team, they would go to the Rose Bowl if:

• They defeat Northwestern at home on Nov. 19, and;

• Michigan State, which shares second place in the Big Ten with Illinois, loses either Saturday at Indiana (very possible) or on Nov. 19 at home against Wisconsin (very unlikely).

For the Illini, that is the least complicated and most favorable of scenarios as the final unfolds.

The first tie-breaker is head-to-head, but each team would have a 1-1 record in this setting. The next tie-breaker is overall record, which kills Michigan State (4-1-1 in league, but only 4-4-1 overall).

Illinois and Michigan were each 1-2 in pre-Big Ten competition, so it goes back to head-to-head. Illinois would survive this scenario based on a win over the Wolverines.

If only Illinois and Michigan tie for first, the Rose Bowl representative would be the winner of Saturday's game in Ann Arbor.

Michigan State would go to California if it were to finish in a two-way tie with Illinois at 6-1-1. The Spartans would get the nod by virtue of their 26-21 win over Illinois Oct. 22 in Champaign.

The Big Ten privately is praying for no more ties—a draw involving any of the three top teams may open the door for Iowa and Indiana, and even more tie-breaker procedures.

"At this point we don't have any guarantees," Mackovic said Tuesday. "I think Michigan, Illinois and Michigan State, the three of us, all are playing hard as we can this week, because this week will probably put into focus exactly what will happen."

The ties, upsets and surprise challengers have made for an exceptionally topsy-turvy season in the Big Ten. For much of that, one can thank—or blame—Mackovic and his Illini.

Few feared Illinois in September when the Illini opened at home with a 44-7 loss to Washington State. Respect began to trickle in when Illinois traveled to Ohio State (2-1 at the time) and rolled to a 31-12 victory, the first of three straight league wins.

A loss to Michigan State and a tie with Minnesota cooled some observers. However, following the Illini's staggering 21-20 win over No. 20 Indiana last weekend, few doubt that Mackovic has worked something close to a miracle in Champaign.

"He did it so quickly because he's a good coach," said Michigan's Bo Schembechler, the dean of Big Ten coaches. "These kids have responded to him. I'm not so sure that he's not doing just as good a job off the field. I think they've just put it together and have done a great job."

To sniff roses, the Illini have to get by 105,000 fans at Michigan. The Illini have not defeated Michigan in Ann Arbor since 1966. A raucous home atmosphere normally helps to accent the Wolverines' defense, which is the top overall unit in the league and No. 14 in the country among NCAA Division I teams.

But the Fighting Illini has shrugged off such indicators of doom all season. To wit: With three minutes left, Illinois resurfaced from a 20-9 deficit against Indiana, scoring two touchdowns to win 21-20.

More than anything, I believe our players have a real understanding and a feeling that they can be successful," Mackovic said. "Whether that's different from before, I don't know. I just know in our year with them, they've felt very good about themselves and believe that they can have the success they deserve if they go out and work hard."

"The fact that we had played Michigan State and were on-side kicking to try to win the game, and the next week we came from behind to kick a field goal to tie Minnesota, and then this week we played coming from behind to win the game...well, it's kind of like runs on a ladder for us. Perhaps that's the best thing for us, is to know what must be done down the stretch to win a game."

Playing in Illinois' favor Saturday will be the absence of numerous Michigan starters, notably quarterback Michael Taylor. On Michigan's first offensive play last Saturday, Taylor broke his collarbone against Minnesota and will be out the rest of the season.

Questionable for Michigan is running back Tony Boles, who ran for 184 yards Saturday, and a handful of defensive players who won't be as hard to replace because of the Wolverines' depth in that department. Questionable for Illinois is sophomore nose guard Morris Gardner, who is on his way to first-team Big Ten honors.

Unquestionable is the importance of Saturday's game, which has stolen much of the glitter usually associated with Michigan's traditional season finale with Ohio State.

"This," Schembechler said, "is a championship game. The game next week, of course, will not be."

After Sooners, May It Be 'Later' For Woody?

By Mark McCall
Journal Staff Writer

Woody Widenhofer must feel like the proverbial drowning man grasping for straws.

His Missouri Tigers, now mired in a four-game losing streak, have had to face Oklahoma State, Nebraska and Colorado the past three weeks. Those teams have a combined record of 22-5, and are all in the Top 20 and headed for bowl games.

Where are Kansas and Kansas State when you need them?

Alas, the Tigers already have beaten Kansas State, and don't visit Kansas until Nov. 19.

Missouri has the unenviable task of entertaining the Oklahoma Sooners in a 1:30 p.m. contest Saturday at Faurot Field (KMOX-AM, 1120).

Despite talk about it being a "down season" in Oklahoma, the Sooners have been playing pretty much up to snuff. A loss to second-ranked USC is the only blemish on Oklahoma's record. The Sooners stand at 8-1 coming into Saturday's game with Missouri, and are ranked eighth by the Associated Press.

But the Tigers, 2-4-1, are struggling, and rumors about Widenhofer's job security are running rampant. Widenhofer is at the end of a four-year contract, which has an option for a fifth year. The option has not been picked up yet.

Only two weeks ago, Widenhofer seemed to feel himself. Although the Tigers lost 26-18 to Nebraska, Missouri put forth its best effort of the season, and nearly pulled off the upset. The hope was that the moral victory would push the team in the right direction for the last three games of the season.

But the Tigers took a U-turn last Saturday at home against Colorado. Playing in 45-degree weather with winds ranging from 20 to 40 mph, the Tigers seemed to give up after first few series when the Buffaloes took an early 14-0 lead. When it was over, Colorado had romped to a 45-9 win.

"It's amazing how you go from playing well one week to not well the next week," Widenhofer said after the game. "Because it's the same players, it's the same coaching staff, it's the same preparation."

The Tigers have not been able to put a solid effort together for two consecutive weeks all season. Widenhofer said his team has had trouble responding to playing under pressure.

"By pressure, I'm talking about not any real pressure, but pressure of having to play good because you did play good a week ago," Widenhofer said. "And that's the pressure that they couldn't handle."

Now, Widenhofer must get his team ready to play against what many consider the Big Eight's best team: the Oklahoma Sooners. He said he is not sure how to go about that task.

"That's a good question," Widenhofer said. "I didn't think we were going to have this problem this week (Colorado)."

"We'll just have to find how much pride, and how much character, and how much integrity they got. Because if they play the way they did, against Oklahoma, (the Sooners will) blow 'em right out of the stadium."

Oklahoma still attacks out of the wilderness, and has compiled typically awesome offensive statistics. Led by quarterback Charles Thompson, the Sooners are in the top five teams in the nation in rushing offense, averaging just less than 380 yards per game on the ground.

Missouri proved it can stop a rushing offense; the Tigers stuffed Nebraska's ground game. But the Tigers were pushed all over the field against Colorado, which had 323 yards rushing.

The Tigers' offense continues to depend largely on the play of redshirt freshman quarterback Corey Welch. Against Colorado, Welch once again was the leading ground gainer for Missouri, with 96 yards. The next closest back to him was fullback Tommie Stivers, who had 45 yards.

Although all signs are pointing to another blowout this weekend, the Tigers say they should not be counted out. With no hopes of a winning season, the Tigers must reach down and play simply for their own integrity.

"That's probably the only motivating factor we have is pride," said running back Stanley Elmore. "We just have to keep our heads up and go out in style. That's the only good part we have to play for at this point."

Notable: This is the Tigers' final home game of the season. Missouri finishes the season next Saturday in Lawrence, Kan., against the Jayhawks.

Last year, Missouri came close to upsetting the No. 1 ranked Sooners in Norman before bowing out 17-21. The Tigers did play well enough to knock Oklahoma out of the top spot, but the Sooners regained that position the next week by beating Nebraska. Oklahoma has not been to Faurot Field since 1965, when the Sooners rolled to a 51-6 win. The Tigers played two consecutive years in Norman so that they wouldn't have to face both Oklahoma and Nebraska at home and on the road in the same season. Missouri's last win over Oklahoma was a 10-0 shutout at home in 1983.

Woody Widenhofer may be pondering his resume. His option for a fifth year as Missouri's coach has not been picked up.
